The Texas Fever Scare.

[illegible], Ill. Aug 5—Dr Paaren state veterinarian submitted to the governor his report in regard to the recent appearance of Texas or splenic fever at Chicago. Postmortem examinations [illegible] upon three diseased animals which [illegible] of splenic fever. Paaren suggests [illegible] states and territories—West Virginia, [illegible], South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, [illegible], Mississippi, Louisiana, the greater part of [illegible], Indian Territory, southern Tennessee [illegible] and Missouri—be subject to schedule by [illegible] until the 1st of September. That all [illegible] transportation companies shall be enjoined from bringing into this state any cattle from [illegible] districts unless shipment is accompanied [illegible] bill of health and the cattle have not come [illegible] infected belt of the country within sixty [illegible] shipment.

[illegible], Aug 5—Texas fever has appeared [illegible] in Ellis county. Apprehension is [illegible] it will spread unless vigorous means are [illegible] taken to suppress it. Governor Glick [illegible] the cattle to be quarantined at once and [illegible] state veterinary surgeon to go there and [illegible] the matter immediately.

[illegible], August 5—Advices from Hays City, [illegible] Ellis county, and Brookville in Saline [illegible] state that Texas fever is among cattle in [illegible]. At Brookville 100 are infected and [illegible] died. At Ellis twelve are down with the [illegible]. Twelve miles south of Ellis thirty four are [illegible] have died. Temporary quarantine [illegible] established and is being rigidly enforced.

The Soldiers' Home Investigation.

[illegible], Aug 5—The soldiers' home congressional committee convened at [illegible] investigating [illegible] continuing the examination of witnesses [illegible] revealed dives of infamy into which [illegible] were inveigled, robbed and sometimes murdered. Many of the resorts are out of the corporate [illegible] and seem to be out of the jurisdiction [illegible]. Even those within the city are not [illegible] the authorities and compare with any [illegible] degraded in large cities. Many soldiers [illegible] become drunk and disorderly are [illegible] removed to the home and there pun[illegible]

[illegible] Representative Mahon said universal com[illegible] soldiers pointed to harsh treatment [illegible] and articles of war. Soldiers were [illegible] garrisons and should be treated as in a [illegible]

[illegible] resident manager said the soldiers com[illegible] generally of strict discipline and unjust [illegible]. They wanted some one to complain [illegible] and lay their grievances before General [illegible], governor of the home. This would [illegible] by a resident manager, but Colonel Har[illegible] present manager lived in Cincinnati and [illegible] would see him but once a year. He be[illegible] the home should be more hospital than a [illegible]. The soldiers had done their work and [illegible] be their reward. The Peach Crop

[illegible], Aug 6—[Special]—A S Cook a large [illegible] in Market street said this morning I [illegible] from a trip through Delaware [illegible] and the peach country of the Hudson. I [illegible] the yield at two million and a half [illegible] about one-third of the average crop [illegible] has not been so poor in a long time. The [illegible] fairly good. White peaches are tasteless [illegible] too much wet weather. New York will [illegible] in the distribution of the crop. The [illegible] being sold off at the orchard. All fruit [illegible] express and freight will be shipped direct [illegible] to points east and west without [illegible] New York as has been the rule. That [illegible] the yield which cannot be shipped advantageously [illegible] points will be sent to New York [illegible] until recently the great distributing [illegible] for various fruits. Now Boston, Cincinnati, [illegible], Chicago and other metropolitan cities [illegible] of their own to supply.

Lightning and Thunder Storm.

[illegible], Aug 5—[Special]—Just before [illegible] thunder was heard and a cloud approached [illegible] southwest, so low that it seemed to touch [illegible], and so dense and black that it turned [illegible] to night. Rain soon began to fall in torrents [illegible] recorded at the city hall gauge in [illegible]. The lightning was frightful. The flash [illegible] crash were simultaneous. Bang! bang! [illegible] in rapid succession sometimes with [illegible] intermission and this continued for [illegible]. It was like a bombardment. Nervous [illegible] succumbed at once; stout-hearted men [illegible] while, but as it kept up without interruption [illegible] too began to turn pale. It stopped [illegible] in the courts, for the witnesses, law[illegible] judges all sprang to their feet in terror at [illegible]. A sharp snap like the snap of a whip [illegible] into an accompanying crash it fairly [illegible]. About twenty places were struck in the [illegible]

Texas Cotton Crop Insured.

[illegible], Aug 5—Rain to-day insures the cotton [illegible] all northern eastern and southeastern [illegible]. This a large portion of central and southern [illegible] still suffering from rain assurances are [illegible] that the drouth will soon be broken in these [illegible]. Commenting upon this welcome intelligence [illegible] News to-day says: The rains of [illegible] are worth millions to the state, the effect [illegible] will be found in almost a revival of general [illegible]. The stringent condition of the money [illegible] throughout the country for the past three [illegible] and the threatening condition of the growing [illegible] crop through unfavorable conditions in [illegible] spring and summer followed later by prevailing [illegible] has had a paralyzing effect upon trade [illegible] Texas which it is now believed will be [illegible] by rains which have come at a critical junc[illegible]

The Corean Embassy at Home

[illegible] Aug 5—The department of state has [illegible] dispatch from Foote, United States minister [illegible] Seoul, Corea, announcing the arrival at [illegible] of the United States steamer Trenton having [illegible] the returning members of the Corean [illegible] from the United States. The embassy was [illegible] by a number of Corean officials who went [illegible] to bid them welcome. Immediately [illegible] reaching Seoul the chief embassy called [illegible] king and expressed great gratification at the [illegible] shown him by the government and [illegible] of the United States, whereby as the [illegible] he had been enabled to see the [illegible]

An Important Decision

[illegible], Iowa, Aug 5—Judge Hayes of the [illegible] Iowa judicial district has rendered an important [illegible] as to the jurisdiction of justices of [illegible] under the new Iowa prohibitory liquor [illegible]. Judge Hayes holds that justices have no jurisdiction [illegible] determine or pass judgment upon [illegible] law other than to hold a preliminary [illegible] and bind defendants over to district court [illegible] based upon the plea that the penalties [illegible] exceed the jurisdiction of justices. [illegible] on all liquor cases commenced here [illegible] new law are dismissed. The question is [illegible] importance and will be appealed to the [illegible] court.

BARTHOLDI'S STATUE.

The Corner Stone of the Pedestal Laid in a Drenching Rain

NEW YORK Aug 5—[Special]—Bartholdi's statue pedestal committee have a stormy day for laying the corner stone at Bedloe's island. The exercises will be opened by prayer, followed by music. Masonic ceremonies, a salute from old Fort Wood, discourse by Albert L Fevre, minister plenipotentiary, in charge of the consulate of France in New York, specially designated for this ceremony, and an oration by William Allen Butler, the ceremonies closing with a benediction by Bishop Potter. A large number of guests is expected.

THE CEREMONIES

NEW YORK Aug 5—The storm to-day interfered very much with the carrying out of the programme arranged for laying the corner stone of the pedestal of Bartholdi's statue of Liberty at Bedloe's island. About 600 persons were present. Those for the most part were officials identified with the ceremony, the Masonic fraternity and invited guests. All stood for three hours during a drenching rain while the programme of exercises was being carried out. If it had been a good day doubtless 10 000 people would have been on Bedloe's island, each paying fifty cents admission.

The guests were met on their arrival at Bedloe's island by 100 men from the Fifth artillery U S A and a corps of policemen. The Governor's island band played several national airs, including the Marseillaise. Comptroller Grant was the only member of the New York city government present.

At the appointed time the stone was laid by the most worshipful master of the grand lodge of the state of New York, and immediately twenty one guns were fired from Old Fort Wood and the band played "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow."

Deputy Grand Master Lawrence in his address said: Never, since the building of the temple of Solomon, have Masons participated in a work more exalted than this.

Hail Columbia followed, and with this the Marseillaise again.

A TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

Albert L Fevre, minister in charge of the French consulate general, said that in a few weeks the statue of Liberty transported by a French ship of war would arrive in this country and be erected upon this spot. A traveler arriving from Europe would behold it, and to all it would be a type of the protecting influence of a free nation. The American government had never suspended the reign of law; it had never resorted to proscriptive measures, and after the conclusion of the great struggle it entrusted to liberty the task of healing the wounds caused by war.

William Allen Butler then delivered the oration and was frequently interrupted by applause.

The exercises closed with benediction by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Henry C Potter.

On arriving again in the city the musicians halted before the French consulate and played the French national air, the compliment being acknowledged by Le Fevre in person, and the dipping of the French flags. The company then proceeded to the Washington building, the site of Washington's headquarters, and partook of the hospitality of Mr Cyrus W Field.

RAILROAD NOTES.

MEETING OF PROMINENT MANAGERS

CHICAGO Aug 5—The managing officials of all railroad lines interested in trans-Missouri business again assembled here this morning and went into secret session at 11 o'clock. The Union Pacific representative will not arrive until this afternoon, and consequently nothing definite can be accomplished pending their arrival. It is not expected under the most favorable conditions that any result can be reached within three or four days owing to the peculiarly complicated nature of the questions to be settled. The first matter to be brought up for settlement is that of Colorado rates, which have been disturbed ever since the combination between the Union Pacific and the Omaha roads to the exclusion of the Burlington until within one week ago when they were temporarily restored to await the action of the present conference, for the proper maintenance of Colorado rates. It is contended by some managers that a pool will necessarily be formed, which will include all lines touching at Omaha and the Union Pacific and all southwestern lines. It is claimed however that so long as what is known as the tripartite agreement between the Union Pacific and the Omaha connections remains in force, any united roads cannot be brought into a pool covering Colorado and other trans-Missouri business owing to the fact that under the tripartite agreement eastern connections of the Union Pacific hold arbitrary power in the making of through western rates.

Officials in attendance however declare that the result aimed at, namely the maintenance of rates upon all competitive western business, can be satisfactorily arranged without antagonizing any present pool, and that it is the temper of all roads now to achieve that result.

This preliminary conference lasted until 12 30 when adjournment was taken to 2 30 to await the arrival of the Union Pacific representatives. No action was taken.

The afternoon session was very brief and no action was taken owing to the continued absence of representatives of the San Francisco and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe roads. Mr James McMullen, vice president of the Chicago and Alton road, has been elected permanent chairman. All representatives concurred with the view that nothing as an outcome can be safely declared at this stage.

THE O. R. AND N. LEASE

PHILADELPHIA Aug 5—[Special]—The Press' New York special says: Harris, president of the Northern Pacific, is expected here in three or four days, when the lease of the Oregon Navigation Company's lines will probably be signed. It will virtually absorb the Navigation company, and has already benefited both roads, as the recent rise in securities of the Oregon Improvement is ascribed to the payment of a loan of $250 000, which the bears declared it could not provide for, and to the opinion that it is getting out of its financial muddle. The Transcontinental directors are now considering a plan for the issuance of trust bonds based on securities, chiefly Navigation and Northern Pacific, which are held and owned by the corporation. The securities will probably be deposited with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

A. T AND S F MEETING

BOSTON, Aug 5—The A T & S F railway directors held a protracted meeting to-day, but little could be learned as to the business done. It is understood the question of perfecting a transcontinental line by way of the Atlantic and Pacific and the Northern Pacific railroads was the main topic considered. Fair progress is said by one of the directors to have been made, but nothing was concluded.

WILL ISSUE MORE BONDS

NEW YORK Aug 5—[Special]—It has been decided by the board of directors of the Oregon and Transcontinental Co to issue collateral trust bonds for $12 000 000, bearing 7 per cent interest, and running for ten years without a sinking fund. These bonds are to be used in taking up the company's floating debt, which aggregates about $11 250,000.

THE TURF.

THE QUEEN OF THE TURF

CLEVELAND Aug 5—[Special]—Baird gets $10 000 for his part in Saturday's performance, that for lowering Maud S's record and half for beating Jay Eye See's record. The queen of the turf received 5000 visitors yesterday between 9 A M and dark, among them being many ladies. The embarkation of the mare for Saratoga took place to-day. Her private car was drawn from Glenview to the city by a special engine in time for the 2 30 train. The car resembles an ordinary baggage car outside, nor is there anything gaudy on the inside, but every convenience possible is arranged. The floor was covered a foot deep with clean rye straw and against the stall's hang thick mattresses to prevent injury by jolting. She was enveloped in a heavy woolen blanket. Everything is as it should be. Her stall is just wide enough to allow her to stand so that she cannot lie down, as that would tend to jar or injure her. The valley that went with the fair one to the station at Saratoga, the grooms' cot is hard by.

A CONDUCTOR KILLED

CHARLOTTE N C Aug 5—On the [illegible] branch of the Western North Carolina railroad yesterday a work train while climbing the mountain broke from the engine and ran back at a terrific rate. All the hands jumped off except Conductor Wynn who tried to apply the brakes. The train ran on a trestle, knocking it down and causing a complete wreck. Conductor Wynn went down among the timbers and was brought out badly crushed. He died shortly afterward.

LONDON Aug 5—The Standard says: We are in a position to state that the negotiations between France and China were definitely broken off Sunday.

The Times publishes a dispatch from Foo Chow which says: Foo Chow is in a fever. China offers to pay an indemnity of 500 000 taels, about $[illegible] 000, which Patenotre, French minister, refused. Twelve Chinese gunboats are placed in position at Foo Chow. The French admiral Courbet is in a furious state of mind. He has done his utmost to provoke war.

PARIS Aug 5—It is reported that Ferry has sent his final ultimatum to Pekin.

FOO CHOW Aug 5—Business here is entirely suspended. The inhabitants are flying to the interior. Foreigners are alarmed and the natives are becoming aggressive. American officers at this port are assisting the British admiral to the utmost for the protection of foreigners.

LONDON, Aug 5—Marquis Tseng had a conference with Earl Granville to-day and asked him to [illegible] European mediation in the troubles between France and China, but Earl Granville refused and ordered increased precaution taken to guard English residents in Canton, Foo Chow and Shanghai.

PARIS, Aug 5—The papers state that Admiral Courbet's squadron has taken possession of the harbor and mines at Kee Lung, a town and treaty port in Formosa.

STRONG TALK AGAINST THE HOUSE OF LORDS

BIRMINGHAM Aug 5—In connection with the great reform demonstration here yesterday a meeting was held at Bingley hall at which 20 000 people were present. Speeches were made by John Bright and Joseph Chamberlain, president of the board of trade. Mr Bright said the tory majority in the house of lords was animated by the same bitter hatred of liberals as in 1831. Who were the peers? he asked. They were the spawn of plunder, the wars and corruption of the dark ages of history. They had entered the temple of honor not through the temple of merit, but through the sepulchers of their ancestors. They were no better than their fathers. Some of them were worse, for their privileges had produced ignorance and arrogance. In the reform of the house of lords Bright declared that it was urgent and inevitable for the creation of new peers. To pass the franchise bill would only get rid of the present difficulty. Should the people submit or should they curb the nobles as their fathers had curbed the kings of Louis? Bright then explained the manner in which he would like to see the power of the lords restricted. He would allow the peers to retain their present powers during the first session, that a bill should be presented them, but he would absolutely preclude them from the voting franchise.

Chamberlain read a long and powerful attack upon the question: "The divine rights of kings," he said, "had been acknowledged to be danger as the divine right of the peers was a ridiculous figment. If the lords remained obstinate in opposition to the popular will the present agitation would [illegible] to the bitter end." He looked forward with eager hope to the result of this agitation. England the child of the home of a self governed people never would be subservient to the insolent pretensions of a hereditary class."

The sentiments of the speakers were received enthusiastic applause. A resolution was adopted [illegible] ing the action of the lords in rejecting the reform of the franchise.

THE SOUDAN CREDIT PASSES

LONDON Aug 5—A vote of £[illegible] for the Soudan credit passed the commons [illegible]

Gladstone in moving a credit of £[illegible] to provide for an expedition to the Soudan [illegible] purpose of this expedition was merely to rescue General Gordon and not to crush El Mahdi. England was bound to protect General Gordon. Gladstone intimated that he was asking the house to vote [illegible] rather on the principle [illegible] figures which he anticipated [illegible] cost. His intention was to [illegible] and redeem pledges which [illegible] made. It was undesirable to enter into details at present.

Labouchere, radical, objected. The vote asked for he believed was mere "sop." Next year the house would be asked to vote £2 100 000 to carry on the work. The credit was agreed to.

THE CORNWALL SCANDAL

LONDON Aug 5—[Special]—Dublin papers are generally disposed to give up [illegible] pastoral letter which Archbishop McCabe [illegible] issued yesterday, urging the press to suppress details of the Cornwall and similar trials. Several newspaper proprietors are willing to suppress everything but the uncertain [illegible] progress of trials, and this will ultimately prevail probably. Dr Fernand, a surgeon of [illegible] guards, who is one of the same class offenses charged against Cornwall, was to-day examined before a magistrate and committed for trial. A notable feature of the examination was the presence of stenographers employed by [illegible] full notes of the proceedings [illegible] to London. From his circumstances it is inferred that Fernandez will have to undergo [illegible] as well as criminal trial.

DISCOVERY OF DYNAMITE

LONDON Aug 5—Three packages of dynamite wrapped in the Irishman newspaper were found in a letter box at Nottingham postoffice. They contained a pound of dynamite with a fuse with a cap attached. It is supposed it was intended to explode by a fall or when stamped. The dynamite was sufficient to wreck the building.

THE FIRE RECORD.

LOCOMOTIVE WORKS BURNED.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 5—Fire broke out in the engine room of the Baldwin locomotive works, Broad and Hamilton streets, and destroyed the machine and tool shops, and a large number of valuable patterns. The total loss is estimated at $150 000. The fire is supposed to have been caused by lightning as the engines had been shut down for some time before the discovery. Part of the boiler house was subsequently destroyed by falling walls.

THE JERSEY CITY FIRE.

Further Particulars of Monday Night's Blaze—No Lives Lost

JERSEY CITY Aug 5—At 11 30 last night there was an explosion of gas said to have been caused by a [illegible]. It blew up the flooring and overthrew the ticket box in the entrance to the Pennsylvania ferry house in Jersey City. Robert M Jones, night ticket taker, and William C Backus were selling and receiving tickets at the time. Both were blown out of their positions and slightly hurt. An unknown lady and gentleman were passing through the entrance at the time. The woman was pinned down by an overturned box and badly burned before rescued. She was taken charge of by friends.

Flames shot up in all directions. The alarm was promptly responded to by the city fire department and fire boats of the New York city and Pennsylvania railroad. A strong southerly wind was blowing at the time and carried the fire to all portions of the waiting room and five slips of the ferry and the immense railroad waiting room. The entire structure was frame and a single story with the exception of a few offices above the ferry entrance.

The steamboats Richard Stockton of the Pennsylvania road, the Newbury excursion steamer and the Thomas P Way of Stoll & Conditts' [illegible] lying at the dock adjoining them at south side of the five slips with two ferry boats laid up for the night, were all towed into the stream by tugs uninjured. Cars in the depot and on Adams' express pier north of the ferry slips were pulled out of danger. The fire has now consumed five slips and sheds over the waiting rooms for ferry and railroad. The railroad waiting rooms, containing the [illegible] of the main depot, have brick walls and iron and glass roofs and will probably be saved. Railroad passengers are landed at Washington street, three blocks west of the ferry, and trains will start from the same point. It is understood that ferryboats will land and receive passengers at the Harsimus cove freight yard, where the company have several floating bridges. No trains can be transported until the ferry slips are rebuilt.

LATER PARTICULARS

The fire will be confined to its present limits. The shed on Adams Express dock is slightly damaged. About 100 feet of the main depot has been destroyed, the remainder is intact. Dr S H [illegible], of No [illegible] East Eighth street, New York, the man who was in the ferry entrance when the explosion occurred, was struck by timbers and glass and badly hurt. His lady friend was seriously burned and was taken to Christ's hospital. Henry Morgan of Marion had the artery of the right arm severed by breaking glass. So far as known no lives were lost. Several hundred guests at Taylor's hotel were greatly alarmed but quieted down when shown there was no danger. Occupants of small stores moved their effects into the street, but are now returning. Car[illegible] truckmen and abbattoir butchers are now using the Chambers street ferry.

STILL SMOULDERING

NEW YORK Aug 5—The ruins of the Pennsylvania railroad depot at Jersey City are still smouldering. Engines are still at work. Travel from the depot is suspended. No new casualties are reported.

THE LOSS

PHILADELPHIA Aug 5—At the Pennsylvania railroad office in this city to-day the loss by last night's fire at the ferry house, Jersey City, is estimated at $300 000. It will cause no delay to traffic.

THE INDEPENDENTS HOLD A NOISY MEETING AT BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Aug 5—The Brooklyn independent republicans held a mass meeting to-night in that city. Every seat in Music Hall was filled from orchestra to circle loft and many were unable to get entrance in the building. A large portion of the audience were democrats and there were many Blaine republicans present.

H W Maxwell called the meeting to order and introduced Horace E Deming as chairman. Mr Deming is chairman of the young men's democratic club of Brooklyn. Deming in his speech said such an immense assembly was an indication of wide spread dissatisfaction among the republicans and of their desire as American citizens for good government. Because they believed that the republican candidate was not a fit person to hold the office of president they were opposed to his election. [Cheers and hisses.] Deming was frequently interrupted by similar demonstrations when the names of candidates were mentioned and before he finished the uproar was so great that he could not be heard.

CARL SCHURZ.

Carl Schurz was then introduced. He said he wished to address himself to republicans and appeal to the reason of men who loved their country. The tariff was not the question which they had to meet, and the charge that they were free-traders was false. The question was whether honest government could be obtained. Would not the indorsement of such a man as Blaine be dangerous to good government? It has been asserted that Blaine was an abused man, and that his enemies were persecuting him. If this were so it was not right. Nothing was so distasteful to him (Schurz) as to discuss the character of any man, but he should not make any charge against Blaine which had not been made against himself. Mr Schurz then read some of the Mulligan letters, and remarked that Blaine's friends disliked very much to be brought face to face with these letters. [A voice: No they don't. Cheers and hisses.] Schurz went into the history of the Mulligan letters, the audience at times becoming so demonstrative that he was obliged to stop speaking for several minutes. In conclusion Mr Schurz spoke in eulogistic terms of the character of Cleveland and said he was in every way worthy of support.

CLEVELAND'S IMMORALITY

The New York Post Admits the Truth of the Charges, but Attempts to Justify

NEW YORK Aug 5—[Special]—The Post's leading editorial this evening says: It is admitted by Governor Cleveland and his friends that twelve years ago he formed an irregular connection with a widow with two children. He accepted the paternity of a child, made provision for it and subsequently obtained possession of it, believing the mother from her intemperate habits unfit to have the care of it. He placed it in an orphan asylum and also recovered it after it was stolen by the mother, forcing bodily injury to the child.

The Post denies that there was seduction or breach of promise, and adds: The charge would disqualify him in our estimation for the presidency if his opponent were as good a man in all other ways, but between Cleveland, against whom nothing can be said except that he has not been proof against the most powerful temptations by which human nature is assailed, and Blaine, it prefers the former. It has seen very few public benefactors who have been chaste. Blaine's vices are those by which governments are overthrown and states brought to naught, the standard by which some ministers now propose to exclude Cleveland from high place would have prevented Washington, Franklin, Jefferson and Hamilton from taking any further part in laying the foundation of the American republic.

POLITICAL POINTS

The Republican Wigwam at San Francisco—Logan in New York—Etc

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 5—[Special]—Work is in active progress on the republican wigwam at the corner of Geary and Stockton streets and the building will be completed in two weeks. It will be 100 by 137 feet with a 12 inch brick wall and a complete front. The stage will be 25 by 50 feet and will be lighted with gas and electric lights. Plans have been submitted and approved by the fire wardens, and the event of its completion will be [illegible] date of the opening of the active work of the campaign. It is intended to combine the laying of the corner stone the house warming, the hatching of the cause and the dedication in one grand jubilee, in which all the republican clubs and organizations throughout the city will participate, twenty speakers having a along with music by glee clubs and brass bands will make the event one long to be remembered. It was stated to-day that General Logan would probably make his first speech to San Francisco audience in this wigwam, perhaps on the opening night.

THE NATIONAL LABOR PARTY

NEW YORK Aug 5—Ex Judge John Rooney presided at a meeting of the executive committee of the national labor party at 3 Place street. Resolutions were passed condemning the action of W A Carsley, W S Wolf and others claiming to represent the national labor party in approving certain official acts of Governor Cleveland and declaring that these persons had no authority and recommending their expulsion from the organization.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY AT PORTSMOUTH

PORTSMOUTH N H Aug 5—Calvin Page, democrat, is chosen mayor over W H Sise, republican, by a vote of 618 to 454, the smallest republican vote cast in this city for many years. The democrats for the first time in seven years elect a majority of the city officers, securing thirteen of the nineteen councilmen and six of the nine aldermen.

LOGAN DISCUSSES CAMPAIGN PLANS

NEW YORK Aug 5—Logan discussed the plan of the campaign for three hours at the republican national headquarters to-day with Chairman B F Jones, ex-Governor Oglesby of Illinois, William Walter Phelps, Garrett H Hobart, General Hawley and Congressman Barrows.

THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

The Number of Deaths Rapidly Diminishing—Hospital Records—Etc

ROME Aug 5—One death from cholera occurred in each of the towns Oulx, Villafranca, Montenotte, Sebark, Rosasco and Campanitis. A fresh case has occurred in the province of Turin.

ROME Aug 5—It has been officially given out that in the twenty four hours which ended at midnight Sunday two deaths from cholera had occurred at Montenotte and one at Villa Franca. At Pauca there has been three fresh cases, but at no other points have there been any. It will be possible in a few days to remove the sanitary cordon.

MARSEILLES Aug 5—There was one death from cholera here between 9 and noon to-day.

MARSEILLES Aug 5—It now transpires there were a number of cases of cholera in the hospital here in 1883. Many of these were fatal. The fact however was suppressed in order to prevent alarm. Attendants were sworn to secrecy. Three deaths here, two at Toulon last night. As many as 6000 people who fled have returned home.

MARSEILLES August 5—There were ten deaths here from cholera during the twenty-four hours ending at 6 o'clock to-night.

GENEVA, Aug 5—There is one case of cholera here.

PARIS Aug 5—Official records show that since the outbreak of cholera in the south of France 2200 have died from the disease.

AT TOULON

TOULON, Aug 5—There has been only one death from cholera to-day. The last three deaths have been among returned fugitives. The record at the Bon Rencontre hospital is as follows: Admitted 1, cured 6, deaths none, under treatment 26. Record of St Mandrier hospital to-day: Admitted 2, cured 7, deaths 1, under treatment 4. There were three deaths from typhoid fever and two from cholera to-day at Lazaret.

A THING OF THE PAST

PARIS August 5—The newspapers now speak of cholera in the past tense. English and American bankers and tourists agencies are unanimous in expressing the opinion that confidence is returning and that there will be a marked increase of tourists.

NOTABLE DEAD.

AN EX JUDGE

NEW YORK August 5—[Special]—Ex Judge Freeman J Fithian died last evening aged 62.

POLITICAL DRIFT

Buffalo Express (rep): Grover Cleveland invented the saying: "Well, is this not enough for you?"

Boston Herald (ind): It is very apparent that General Butler's grip on the tail of the democratic party in this state is loosened.

St Louis Globe Democrat: The southern confederacy has got a "her ear and tail hold on poor old Missouri" in the assured nomination of Marmaduke for governor.

New York Sun (dem): When it comes to the circus we will see Cleveland will get a good many more votes than the Massachusetts rival, but those cast for Butler will be given with a warmth and an enthusiasm such as few candidates have ever excited.

Ex Senator Thurman ought to know the London Spectator's [illegible] to president 5—Mr Cleveland of Ohio. Yet all Mr Thurman would say of the great man in a recent political meeting was, "they tell me he is a good democrat."

The New York Star (Tammany organ), which ought to know, says Mr Curtis may not credit it, yet we can frankly assure him that at Harper's Weekly at present is sending an abundance of recruits into the Blaine ranks. It adds: Nast is a pictorial Balaam.

Chicago Journal (rep): The Chicago Times with a degree of disinterestedness that is refreshing even in a democratic organ, sees the prohibitionists to vote for their own separate candidates by all means. The democrats are counting largely upon the folly of the prohibitionists.

A Pointer for the Democratic Managers.

New Orleans Picayune (dem): Democratic machinery is getting to be so much of a close corporation that the people cannot break into it at any point, and the consequence will be that the people will let it alone. On the other hand, observe the harmony secured to a party by the republican policy of going down to the people. The republicans have abolished the unit rule, and do not allow any man to be allowed or even to be pledged to support the ticket. The consequence is that the Arthur men and the Edmunds men, with few exceptions, now say that it was a fair fight and they will support Blaine. The bolt is really of insignificant proportions and the democracy cannot rely upon it to win a victory. They can have no hope unless they can secure a greater harmony and have no bolters at all. They must popularize the methods of the party.

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

Matters of Interest to the People of Oregon and Washington

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON July 28

Since the adjournment of congress the officials of both the senate and the house have been engaged in putting in shape the legislation of the session just closed, and it is now possible to speak with accuracy of the results of the first session of the forty-eighth congress. Of course the public measures of the session have already been considered and criticised, but your correspondent intends to deal solely with such completed legislation as concerns Oregon and Washington. And first as to the money allowed in the appropriation bills for expenditure during the present fiscal year. They are as follows:

For the establishment of a light at the entrance of Gray's harbor, Washington territory, $11 500; continuing the survey of the coast of Oregon, namely a survey from Umpqua river southward and including such river mouths as may be specially called for, and off shore hydrography and the survey of Columbia river and Willamette river to the head of ship navigation $7000; continuing survey of the coast of Washington territory, namely for continuing the triangulation, topography and hydrography of Juan de Fuca straits, of the estuaries of Puget sound and of Possession sound $9000; for compensation of officers and members of the legislative assembly of Washington territory during special session of the legislative assembly from December 4 to December 7, 1881, inclusive, as per proclamation of Governor Newell, $3194; to enable the secretary of the treasury to pay to the state of Oregon the 15 per centum of the amount of their quota of the direct tax of 1861 on account of the proper cost for assuming the collection of the same $2[illegible]71 10; for compensation in full of volunteer clerks employed in transcribing a new set of records for the office of the U S surveyor general and U S land office at Olympia, Washington territory, the records of which were destroyed by fire September 19 1882, $16 750, provided that in all cases where the clerks so employed are paid a regular salary from an existing appropriation the amount which they may be found entitled to shall be paid them in addition to the compensation now authorized by law; to reimburse appropriations for reproducing worn and defaced official plats of surveys for the fiscal year 1884 for amount expended in procuring lithographic copies of plats for the U S surveyor general and register at Olympia, Washington territory, to take the place of the originals destroyed by fire $[illegible]; for payment to the estate of A D Fisher for lands in Indian reservation in Washington territory $1521.

The following are the river and harbor appropriations for Oregon and Washington: Coos Bay $30 000; harbor of Yaquina bay $50 000; improving mouth of the Columbia river, commencing improvements in accordance with the plan recommended by the majority of the board of engineers in 1884, $100 000; Columbia river at Cascades $151 000; Columbia and lower Willamette rivers below Portland $10 000; upper Columbia and Snake rivers $25 000; Willamette river above Portland $10 000; mouth of Coquille river $1 000; Chehalis river $2500; Cowlitz river $2000; Skagit, Stillaguamish, Nooksack, Snohomish and Snoqualmie rivers $10 000.

The following river surveys were also ordered: Bar at the mouth of the entrance to Nehalem bay and river; Olympia harbor, Puyallup river, Willapah river, Lewis river and Columbia river above Snake river.

The following are the public acts local to Oregon and Washington passed during the session:

To authorize the Oregon Pacific railroad company to construct one or more bridges across the Willamette river.

As the laws for Washington have a bearing they are given in full:

An act providing one additional justice of the supreme court of the territory of Washington and for other purposes:

That hereafter the supreme court of the territory of Washington shall consist of a chief justice and three associate justices, any three of whom shall constitute a quorum, but no justice shall act as a member of the supreme court in any action or proceeding brought to such court by writ of error, bill of exceptions or appeal from a decision, judgment or decree rendered by him as judge of a district court.

That it shall be the duty of the president to appoint one additional associate justice of said supreme court in manner now provided by law, who shall hold his office for the term of four years and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

That the said territory shall be divided into four judicial districts and a district court shall be held in each district by one of the justices of the supreme court thereof at such time and place as may be prescribed by law. Each judge after assignment, shall reside in the district to which he is assigned.

That until changed by the legislative assembly of said territory the first district of said territory shall consist of the counties of Walla Walla, Columbia, Garfield, Asotin, Franklin, Adams, Whitman and Spokane; the second of the counties of Pierce, Thurston, Mason, Chehalis, Lewis, Pacific, Wahkiakum, Cowlitz and Clarke; the third, of the counties of King, Kitsap, Jefferson, Clallam, Island, San Juan, Whatcom, Skagit and Snohomish, and the fourth of the counties of Skamania, Klickitat, Yakima, Kittitas, Douglas, Lincoln and Stevens.

That temporarily, and until otherwise ordered by law, the additional associate justice to be appointed under this act is hereby assigned to said Fourth district thereof, and the time and place as now fixed by the statutes of said territory for holding court therein shall remain until changed by law.

That all offenses committed before the passage of this act shall be prosecuted, tried and determined in the same manner and with the same effect (except as to the number of judges) as if this act had not been passed.

An act to validate and cure defects in certain acts of the legislative assembly of Washington territory.

That all those certain acts passed by the legislative assembly of the territory of Washington at its ninth biennial session commencing Monday October 1 1883 and ending November 28 1883 namely:

An act to correct errors and supply defects in the code of Washington.

An act amending chapter one hundred and ninety three of the code relative to the construction and maintenance of dikes and ditches.

An act to prohibit the sale of toy pistols, fire-arms and tobacco to children under the age of 16 years.

An act in relation to prosecuting attorneys, defining their duties and fixing their compensation.

An act to supply deficiencies in the appropriation for the hospital for the insane for the fiscal years 1882 and 1883.

An act to provide for holding a term of the district court at Port Townsend.

An act to enable the county commissioners of Yakima county to build certain bridges in Yakima county.

An act to legalize certain ordinances and proceedings of the city of Seattle in condemning a strip of land for a public street.

An act to provide for the payment of bills for printing blank commissions for general officers, commissioners of deeds and notaries public for use of the executive department.

An act to establish the county seat of Garfield county at Pomeroy.

Notwithstanding the omission of the enacting clause or the date of the governor's approval, the misdating of such approval, or other defect or other irregularity, are hereby validated and confirmed as of November 28 1883, when they are supposed to have been approved.

That the words [illegible] be inserted in the act of said legislative assembly [illegible]

An act to amend section 36[illegible] of the code of Washington, approved November [illegible] 1881, immediately after the word [illegible] where it occurs, to read and [illegible] and immediately before the word "section" thereof, and that construction and effect be given to said act as though it contained said words.

A New Convert in the Democratic Fold Politely but Firmly Pointed to the Door

Cincinnati Enquirer July 30

The New York Times continues to deplore the selection of William H Barnum as chairman of the democratic national committee. Too bad the Times could not have been consulted in this matter. But the fact of having been kicked out of the republican party does not make the Times a democratic paper, and therefore the matter of the chairmanship of the democratic committee is not considered any of its business. It is a funeral, it is not the funeral of the Times, and it should restrain its tears. Our esteemed but distressed contemporary is likely to have much more than this to annoy and make it unhappy before the campaign is over. We see no symptoms that things are to be run to suit its aristocratic and English taste. Our disinterested advice to the Times would be to go back into the republican party if it can. True it had no influence there, but as a democratic newspaper it will not only have no influence but its sensitive nerves are sure to be shocked by many an unkind reference.

THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLAR FIRE AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 5—Fire this morning at 10 30 completely destroyed the large building at No 25 Main street occupied by the Schmidt Printing and Lithograph Company and Tatum & Bowen machinists. The losses will probably reach half a million.

PARTICULARS

The building was a very large and handsome structure and comprised all the numbers from 25 to 31 on Main street. It had a frontage of 90 feet, with a depth of 137½ feet. The lower floor was occupied by Tatum & Bowen, dealers in oils and machinery. The two upper floors contained the machinery and stock of the Schmidt Label and Lithographing company, the largest establishment of the kind on the coast. The fire started in the varnishing department, through the upsetting of a can of varnish near the fire. The flames spread with great rapidity and within a few minutes of the first alarm at 7 minutes past 10 all the upper stories were in full blaze.

At 10 45 the rear portion of the roof fell, and a few minutes later the floor of the third story came crashing down to the second floor borne down by the weight of the heavy machinery. Although severely strained that floor stood firm and was the means of saving Tatum & Bowen's stock on the ground floor, which has only suffered from the drenching it received. But in all the upper portion of the building the violence of the flames was so great that all the water poured on them from all the engines in the city seemed to produce no effect. The efforts of the firemen were badly neutralized by the constant bursting of the hose owing to the smallness of the supply pipes in that locality.

UNDER CONTROL

At 11 o'clock the worst was over and the fire was confined to the building where it originated. All the employes, many of whom were girls, escaped without injury, although several of them were forced to make a hazardous jump in their exit.

The losses will not be so great as was at first supposed, although those of Schmidt & Co are closely estimated at $175 000, insured for $95 000. The names of the companies are not yet known. This, with the value of the building will probably bring the total losses up to $330 000. The building was owned by R. R. Thompson of Alameda.

It seems the upsetting of a can of varnish which was the cause of the fire was due to the negligence of a Chinaman employed in the building.

LOSSES

Schmidt & Co $200 000, insured for $120 000. Tatum & Bowen, dealers in machinery and lubricating oils, $5 000, fully covered. Whalen & Tracey, bookbinders, $1000, covered. The total insurance is divided among city companies. Among the largest holders are the Etna of Hartford $5000, Hartford Co $4000, Royal Insurance $5500.

One hundred and fifty employes are thrown out of employment. The loss is less than originally estimated. It will not exceed $275 000.

Fast via Portland.

[Special]—It is becoming quite the fashion lately for Californians who have leisure to go east via Portland and the Northern Pacific. Every steamer going north has from ten to twenty passengers destined for the east. The Northern route is said to be much richer in scenery and in all respects a pleasanter passage than the Central Pacific or the Southern Pacific. When the "missing link" between Oregon and California is supplied there will be a large movement of travel that way.

Cranks and Enthusiasts.

The cranks who visit the White house and are captured and sent to the insane asylum or transported to their homes are not the only curious people who bother the government authorities. Many operate through the mails and the recent cholera scare has turned these great minds in a new direction. One has invention for the immediate production of chlorine gas, an excellent disinfectant, for which he demands $100 000. John B. Wolff of Washington has a cholera specific worth a similar sum and he wants the cabinet instead of a board of prejudiced physicians to examine his cure. Thomas Mather of Atlantic City offers a certain cure for small pox for a large sum. He has written several letters to the president, one of which was responded to by Surgeon General Hamilton in a way that touched Mr Mather's vanity and he answered with an anathema of Dr Hamilton and doctors in general. He also makes a threat that if his cure be not soon purchased by the United States or some other nation he will withdraw it from the market and allow the responsibility of the millions of widows and orphans caused by his failure to negotiate to rest upon the government and Dr Hamilton. Mr Mather states that he was for seven years a justice of the peace, for several years a notary public and for several years a constable. He stamps his letters with an old seal showing that he was a notary public at Fall River, Mass. Another philanthropist is J. A. Schroppel of Wurzberg-on-the-Main, who has an invention which will fully free pork and all kinds of American hog products from trichinae and hog cholera. He guarantees a cure and if successful he wants $200 000, payable in ten years, $20 000 per annum.

One More Veto

Chicago Tribune

A New York workingman in conversation with a reporter of John Kelly's paper, the New York Star, a few days ago enumerated the labor bills that Grover Cleveland had vetoed and gave the reasons urged by the governor for his vetoes. When the son of toil had gone through the list he informed the curious reporter of a bill the governor vetoed, but which did not affect the laboring man so much as certain gentlemen in high places. The bill in question was one providing that "illegitimate children could inherit real and personal property." The governor assigned as his reason for the veto that the bill "would make a radical and dangerous change in the law." Was the governor thinking of Oscar Folsom?

Harper's Cartoons

San Francisco Chronicle

The Solano Times says: The last number of Harper's Weekly contains fourteen works of art from the pencil of Tom Nast, dedicated to the Mulligan chief. In the editorial columns of the paper Curtis continues to thunder for Cleveland and reform. The Times fails to state that every one of these fourteen works of art is an attack on Blaine because he was in favor of the restriction of Chinese emigration. The editor of the Times would not be so eager to endorse this particular number if he were aware of the fact that the republican state central committee has purchased 10 000 copies to circulate among democratic voters in California.

George William Curtis, you may tell us who and what the independents are.

The independents are dissatisfied republicans who join the democrats because the tail could not wag the dog.

What are the democrats?

They are the most corrupt party that ever existed in the republic of the United States. It was the party of slavery and secession.

Why then did the independents join the democrats?

Please sir, that is as far as I've got my lesson.

WHY REPUBLICANS CANNOT DO IT.

Who are the democratic candidates that any republican, or other person who has disapproved the course and conduct of the democratic party during the last twenty-five years, should think of voting for them? It is the boast of the partisans of Cleveland and Hendricks that these candidates have been democrats all their lives. As such, then, they have supported the democratic party in the leading measures of its policy and history. Is this commendation, or condemnation?

Mr. Cleveland is much younger than Mr. Hendricks, but he was old enough to take his stand as a voter in 1858 in support of the party that made it the chief point of its creed and the chief object of its effort to push the extension of slavery and to commit the national government to the support of the slave propaganda. The first presidential election in which Mr. Cleveland was a voter was that of 1860. He voted against Mr. Lincoln. Throughout the war he saw nothing to disapprove in the "copperheadism" that controlled his party, and therefore gave unfaltering support to his party and its candidates. In 1864 he heard without disapproval the proclamation of his party that the war was a failure, coupled with the demand that it ought to be abandoned; and taking this view of it he naturally voted against Mr. Lincoln again. As he opposed the prosecution of the war and the abolition of slavery, so after the war he approved the efforts of his party to prevent a settlement of questions growing out of it, on a basis of justice to the colored population and security for the political future. He voted steadily with his party, though it opposed the ratification of the constitutional amendments to secure the fruits of the struggle; he wavered not in his allegiance to it, though it attempted to repudiate the public debt by means of the greenback juggle; nor could he ever speak, so far as any record shows, a single word against any position of that misguided policy of his party which the country has been rejecting steadily for the past twenty-five years. Mr. Cleveland, therefore, is indeed a democrat. They who have approved the career of the democratic party since 1858 may find reason to vote for him; others cannot.

Then Mr. Hendricks. He is a much older man than Mr. Cleveland, and had become a noted and active democratic politician while Cleveland was still a schoolboy. Mr. Hendricks began his career in politics by conspicuous servility to the pro-slavery wing of his party. In him the typical northern dough-face was exhibited. He was always at the command of the slave power. In obedience to it, he voted in congress for the repeal of the Missouri compromise, and thus helped to precipitate on the country the political struggle that led directly up to the civil war. Extension of slavery was, in his view, the cardinal point in the democratic creed. His subserviency to the slave holders soon brought about his defeat, but he became a leader in his party, and as such was the head of the conspiracy in Indiana to weaken or intimidate the government and prevent the prosecution of the war. In 1862, through a variety of causes, a number of the states voted democratic, Indiana among them. The party in Indiana was under control of those who sympathized with the southern confederacy, and a democratic victory in that state had in it all the conditions of a rebel triumph. The legislature chosen that year is known in the history of Indiana as the "rebel legislature." It was held in check by the courage of Governor Morton, seconded by President Lincoln, but it elected Hendricks to the senate. In that body Hendricks distinguished himself by his opposition to every measure of the government for carrying on the war. He censured the administration without stint, declared it tyrannical and corrupt, opposed the enrollment and draft, denounced the employment of colored troops, insisted that every measure taken by the government to suppress the rebellion was unconstitutional, but could see nothing unconstitutional in the attitude of the confederate states. He spoke and voted against the repeal of the fugitive slave law, and when the resolution to submit to the states the amendment to abolish slavery came before the senate he made an last effort to save slavery by voting against the resolution. In 1864 he was at Chicago, agreeing with the confederate element of his party that the war was a failure, and after the course of events proved this to be false, he steadily opposed all the settlements by which the results of the struggle were to be made secure. Is there a reason why anybody who disapproved all this in the career of Mr. Hendricks should be asked to vote to make him vice president and possible president of the United States now? If there is anything in that career which entitles him to the confidence of the country, it is unfortunate that no examination has yet discovered it.

Cleveland and Hendricks, then, are personal and political representatives of everything which the republican party has opposed during the whole period of its existence. All that is great and honorable in its achievements has been carried against their protest and over their opposition. A republican voting for them would stultify himself by virtually confessing that they have been right and he has been wrong. He would thereby express his regret for the achievements of the republican party, and would declare by his act that these democratic candidates were worthy of highest honor and reward for their steadfast opposition to the career of the republican party and to all it has accomplished.

The temperance people of Iowa are organized and active, and have begun offensive operations in many places; but they are meeting with the same experience that is so familiar in Vermont and Maine. The officers who are elected from the people and by the people are disinclined to act against the liquor sellers. Constable shifts the work upon sheriff, and both upon the deputy, and all seem inclined to dodge duty in the usual way. So far the traffic has been driven out of sight in a good many places, and that is about all. In a republican government it is very difficult to execute a law which a large proportion of the people believe rests upon opinion rather than upon universally recognized and admitted principles of right, as the prohibitory law does; and while we should be glad to see the law succeed in Iowa, we look for nothing more than a repetition of the old prohibition story.

It is unpleasant to notice that a Chinese financier in New York has been overcome by the American example and defaulted. In this respect it might be better to have America follow the Chinese example. In that land of absurdly antiquated civilization they regard a financier's head as part of his assets, and in case of a defalcation they take off the head. The effect of this capital danger is said to be a remarkable strengthening of the moral backbone in the banking interest of the central flowery kingdom.

Carl Schurz has found a job for himself in the bolting business. He will translate Geo. Wm. Curtis into German to catch or to make German bolters. For the sake of keeping both "leaders" in the movement in good money-making campaign places, Schurz might occasionally do something original in German for Curtis to translate into English. By translating each other back and forth in this way, the country would find out by next winter just what both men are driving at.

It is indeed a noble spectacle to find the paper which Bryant once conducted admitting the charge of immorality against Governor Cleveland, justifying his conduct, and then supporting him as a means of promoting the great cause of "moral reform." Now that the charge is admitted, it may be supposed there will be no further denial of it.

[illegible] of Solomon's reign commerce has been the source of the wealth and power of most of the nations of the world, and those nations which have been able to draw to themselves raw materials in greatest abundance and return in exchange goods of their own manufacture have been the most prosperous. England to-day by the extent of her manufactures and trade is financially and commercially strong. The announcement which her manufacturers make with the most satisfaction and pride, reads: "Our market is the world." The secret of her great prosperity lies in the fact that she is able to export finished products. No community has ever become permanently rich and strong by exporting raw materials. When the producers of cotton, for example, have exported all they raised, those who would otherwise have engaged in manufacture have been compelled to resort to production and by competition to reduce its price. And there have been no large class of consumers to create a demand for other articles received in exchange, and this again has tended to lower its price. The freedom of trade which the cotton planters of the south insisted upon, became a tax upon those not engaged in its production, and then a tax upon themselves. The remedy for over production of raw products, is the greater production of manufactured articles for which they can be exchanged. A glut is caused, according to Say, not so much by a superabundance of articles of one kind, as by the scarcity of articles of other kinds. Products remain unsold because there is not a sufficient quantity of other products to exchange for them. Exchange of this kind is always possible, but it is only profitable when the purchasing power is very nearly equally distributed. The United States has now reached the point where it is possible to export finished products, which is the principal if not the only real benefit which protection can afford. Our manufacturers are equal in most branches, and superior in many to those of other nations. Our cotton prints, our agricultural machinery, our watches, for example, are acknowledged to be superior to those of Europe. And what we now need most of all is access to the markets of the world in order to sustain the manufacturing industries already developed, and to increase their magnitude and variety.

General Wallace, our minister to Turkey, who has just returned, says: "In the three years that I have been in Constantinople, which is a commercial center, I have seen our flag on two ships in that harbor. One was the Namouna, James Gordon Bennett's yacht, and the other was on the United States ship Quinnebaug. This is bad for Fourth of July orators, but it is a fact which the people might as well know. I never have seen our flag upon a ship of commerce or a steamer there. It is a matter of astonishment to the Turks. They know our strength, our wealth and our producing capacity. They ask repeatedly, 'Where are your ships? Where is your flag? What is the matter?'"

It is true we have very few ships. The government forbids us to buy them, and under present conditions it is unprofitable to build them. But they are one of our greatest necessities. With frequent, rapid and cheap transportation facilities we might divide with Great Britain her claims to the world as a market. As it is we are limited to our own home market, to Canada, the West Indies, the Sandwich islands and Mexico chiefly for the disposal of our goods. Nothing seems to have made a stronger impression upon General Grant during his tour around the world that the fact that it is possible to increase our material wealth by extending our markets, and he urged the establishment of a commercial treaty with Mexico for this purpose. If we had steam lines which could carry for low freights it would not be difficult to sell abroad the surplus that now accumulates and renders our home market stagnant and is now sending the products of many of our factories to the auction room. The disposal abroad of even a small percentage of our manufactured goods would relieve the trade, keep the mills running all the time, and do more than anything else to make our prosperity permanent. Without a foreign market we have only the demand created by the natural growth of our population and its increase by emigration to stimulate manufactures. A protective tariff may stimulate production, but it does not create the market, and without that the limit of profitable manufacturing is soon reached. It is at least only a question of time. We require at the present time an extension of our foreign commerce, more than the increase of manufactures. We need a share of the trade which has enriched England. But it will be impossible to gain it unless the burdens are removed from American shipping, and it may be necessary to render direct aid to the shipping interest to enable us to compete with England in the commerce of the world.

While England has been very liberal in extending aid to her various steamship lines, having given, during the period when our government was granting subsidies to railroads, about $60,000,000 in subsidies to steamship companies, she has constantly had in view the profitable disposition of her manufactured products. She has not aided in establishing lines to run between American and competing outports, but all her ships are made tributary to the exchange of her own products. Under this policy England has secured not only the lion's share of the carrying trade, but at the same time a market for everything she can produce. This is what our country now needs more than a further stimulation of manufacturing industries. The fact that an American merchantman has not been seen at Constantinople for three years means more than that our flag is not there. It means that we have no market there, and that we are paying gold for the products of the Mediterranean region, instead of exchanging for them the finished products of our country.

The people of Strong, Mo., will celebrate August 7 as the 30th anniversary of the birth of the republican party, but Vermont claims a prior birth of the party. Both the name and anti-slavery principles of the republican party were adopted by a mass convention held at Montpelier, Vt., July 13, 1854, when candidates for state officers were nominated. A convention had been held at Rutland, June 13, which cut loose from all connection with the propagandists of slavery in the whig party and nominated Stephen Royce for governor and O. L. Shafter, since then a prominent lawyer in California, for lieutenant-governor. The two tickets were afterward consolidated into Royce and Fletcher, who were elected as the first republican officers in the state.

Civil service reform prevents the offices being used for campaign agencies this year. That suits the democracy well enough. But it also prevents them from being overhauled for the benefit of the democratic workers, if they should get control of the administration. That does not suit the democracy at all. The net result of the two considerations is that if the democracy get into power they will abolish civil service reform and make a clean sweep of the offices.

Henry Ward Beecher's notorious bread and water, dollar a day sermon, delivered about two years ago, is being issued as a campaign document by the labor organizations of Brooklyn. Governor Cleveland may yet have cause to pray for delivery from the friendship of the rockety Plymouth preacher.

The New York Evening Post's apology for Cleveland's illegitimate child is like the excuse made by the servant girl when she met a charge like this one against Cleveland by saying, "Yes, mum—but then it was such a little one."

A Conundrum

New York Star (Tammany).

A most singular fact is the unanimity with which many local democratic statesmen agree that the republicans are going to elect Cleveland. It appears to be the only campaign argument. If between now and election the "dependents" should discover that they were being used as catspaws and should flop, or if the eminent local statesmen should ascertain that a large portion of the democratic party were equally determined to elect Blaine, what would be the new argument?

"An honest tale speeds best being plainly told." King Richard III.

If a company means to insure your life honestly and squarely, and not take any advantage of you, there is no reason why it should not tell you so honestly and squarely in its policy. Don't take a policy that is loaded down with technicalities, ambiguities and restrictions, when you can obtain one from the UNION MUTUAL LIFE, so simple and definite that you can't misunderstand it, and so broad and liberal, that you can't get out from under it.

WHY REPUBLICANS CANNOT DO IT.

Who are the democratic candidates that any republican, or other person who has disapproved the course and conduct of the democratic party during the last twenty-five years, should think of voting for them? It is the boast of the partisans of Cleveland and Hendricks that these candidates have been democrats all their lives. As such, then, they have supported the democratic party in the leading measures of its policy and history. Is this a recommendation or condemnation?

Mr. Cleveland is much younger than Mr. Hendricks, but he was old enough to take his stand as a voter in [illegible] support of the party that made it the chief [illegible] of its policy and the chief object of its effort to [illegible] the extension of slavery and [illegible] the [illegible] government to the support of the slave propaganda. The first presidential election in which Mr. Cleveland was a voter was that of 1860. He voted against Mr. Lincoln. Throughout the war he saw nothing to disapprove in the "copperheadism" that controlled his party, and therefore gave unflinching support to its party and its candidates. In 1864 he voted without disapproval the proclamation of his party that the war was a failure, coupled with the demand that it ought to be abandoned; and taking this view of it he naturally voted against Mr. Lincoln again. As he opposed the prosecution of the war and the abolition of slavery, so after the war he approved the efforts of his party to prevent a settlement of questions growing out of it, on a basis of justice to the colored population and security for the political future. He voted steadily with his party, though it opposed the ratification of the constitutional amendments to secure the fruits of the struggle; he wavered not in his allegiance to it, though it attempted to repudiate the public debt by means of the greenback juggle, nor would he ever speak, so far as any record shows, a single word against any position of that misguided policy of his party which the country has been rejecting steadily for the past twenty-five years. Mr. Cleveland, therefore, is indeed a democrat. They who have approved the career of the democratic party since 1860 may find reason to vote for him; others cannot.

Then Mr. Hendricks. He is a much older man than Mr. Cleveland, and had become a noted and active democratic politician while Cleveland was still a schoolboy. Mr. Hendricks began his career in politics by conspicuous servility to the pro-slavery wing of his party. In him the typical northern doughface was exhibited. He was always at the command of the slave power. In obedience to it, he voted in congress for the repeal of the Missouri compromise, and thus helped to precipitate on the country the political struggle that led directly up to the civil war. Extension of slavery was, in his view, the cardinal point in the democratic creed. His subserviency to the slave holders soon brought about his defeat, but he became a leader in his party, and as such was the head of the conspiracy in Indiana to weaken or to intimidate the government and prevent the prosecution of the war. In 1862, through a variety of causes, a number of the states voted democratic, Indiana among them. The party in Indiana was under control of those who sympathized with the southern confederacy, and a democratic victory in that state had in it all the conditions of a rebel triumph. The legislature chosen that year is known in the history of Indiana as the "rebel legislature." It was held in check by the courage of Governor Morton, seconded by President Lincoln, but it elected Hendricks to the senate. In that body Hendricks distinguished himself by his opposition to every measure of the government for carrying on the war. He censured the administration, which seemed to him tyrannical and corrupt, opposed the confiscation and draft, denounced the employment of colored troops, instead that every [illegible] or nothing more [illegible] prohibition story.

It is unpleasant to notice that a Chinese financier in New York has been overcome by the American example and defaulted. In this respect it might be better to have America follow the Chinese example. In that land of absurdly antiquated civilization they regard a financier's head as part of his assets, and in case of a defalcation they take off the head. The effect of this capital danger is said to be a remarkable strengthening of the moral backbone in the banking interest of the Central Flowery Kingdom.

Carl Schurz has found a job for himself in the [illegible] He will translate Geo. Wm. Curtis into German [illegible] the Germans [illegible] to the movement in good money making campaign places. [illegible] might [illegible] going each other back and forth [illegible] the country [illegible] what both men are driving at.

It is indeed a noble spectacle to find the paper which [illegible] admitted admitting the charge of immorality against Governor Cleveland, justifying his conduct, and then supporting him as a means of promoting the great cause of "moral reform." Now that the charge is admitted, it may be supposed there will be no further denial of it.

FOREIGN COMMERCE.

Since the time of Solomon foreign commerce has been the source of the wealth and power of most of the nations of the world, and those nations which have been able to draw to themselves raw materials in greatest abundance and return in exchange goods of their own manufacture have been the most prosperous. England is great by the extent of her manufactures and trade is financially and commercially strong. The announcement which her manufacturers make with the most satisfaction and pride, is, "Our market is the world." The secret of her great prosperity lies in the fact that she is able to export finished products. No community has ever become permanently rich and strong by exporting raw materials. When the producers of cotton, for example, have exported all they raised, those who would otherwise have engaged in manufacture have been compelled to resort to production and by competition to reduce its price. And there have been no large class of consumers to create a demand for other articles received in exchange, and this again has tended to lower its price. The freedom of trade which the cotton planters of the south insisted upon, became a tax upon those not engaged in its production, and then a tax upon themselves. The remedy for over production of raw products is the greater production of manufactured articles for which they can be exchanged. A glut is caused, according to Say, not so much by a superabundance of articles of one kind, as by the scarcity of articles of other kinds. Products remain unsold because there is not a sufficient quantity of other products to exchange for them. Exchange of this kind is always possible, but it is only profitable when the purchasing power is very nearly equally distributed. The United States has now reached the point where it is possible to export finished products, which is the principal if not the only real benefit which production can afford. Our manufactures are equal in most branches, and superior in many to those of other nations. Our cotton prints, our agricultural machinery, our watches, for example, are acknowledged to be superior to those of Europe. And what we now need most is access to the markets of the world in order to sustain the manufacturing industries already developed, and to increase their quantity and variety.

General Wallace, our minister to Turkey, who has just returned, says: "In the three years that I have been in Constantinople, which is a commercial center, I have seen our flag on two ships in that harbor. One was the Namouna, James Gordon Bennett's yacht, and the other was on the United States ship Quinnebaug. This is bad for Fourth of July orators, but it is a fact which the people might as well know. I never have seen our flag upon a ship of commerce or a steamer there. It is a matter of astonishment to the Turks. They know our strength, our wealth and our producing capacities. They ask repeatedly, 'Where are your ships? Where is your flag?' What is the reason?"

It is true we have very few ships. The government forbids us to buy them, and under present conditions it is unprofitable to build them. But they are one of our greatest necessities. With frequent, rapid and cheap transportation facilities we might divide with Great Britain her claims to the world as a market. As it is we are limited to our own home market, to Canada, the West Indies, the Sandwich islands and Mexico chiefly for the disposal of our goods. Nothing seems to have made a stronger impression on General Grant during his tour around the world than the fact that it is possible to carry our material wealth by extending our markets, and he urged the establishment of a commercial treaty with Mexico for this purpose. If we had steam lines which would carry for low freights it would not be difficult to market the surplus that now accumulates and renders our home market stagnant and [illegible] sending the products of many of our factories to the auction room. The disposal of a very small percentage of our manufactured goods would relieve the trade, keep the mills running all the time, and give labor steady employment at a fair wage. Without a foreign market we have only the demand created by the natural growth of our population and its increase by emigration to stimulate manufactures. A protective tariff may stimulate production, but it does not create the market, and without that the work of profitable manufacturing is soon reached. It is almost entirely a question of time. We require at the present time an extension of our foreign commerce more than the increase of manufactures. We need a share of the trade which has enriched England. But it will be impossible to get it unless the burdens are removed from American shipping, and it may be necessary to render direct aid to the shipping interest to enable us to compete with England in the commerce of the world.

While England has been very liberal in extending aid to her various steamship lines, having given, during the period when our government was granting subsidies to railroads, about $[illegible] in subsidies to steamship companies, she has constantly had in view the profitable disposition of her manufactured products. She has not aided in establishing lines to run between American and European ports, but all her ships are made tributary to the exchange of her own products. Under this policy England has secured not only the lion's share of the carrying trade, but at the same time a market for everything she can produce. This is what our country now needs more than a further stimulation of manufacturing industries. The fact that an American merchantman has not been seen at Constantinople for three years means more than that our flag is not there. It means that we have no market there, and that we are paying gold for the products of the Mediterranean region, instead of exchanging for them the finished products of our country.

The people of Strong, Me., will celebrate August 7 as the 30th anniversary of the birth of the republican party, but Vermont claims a prior birth of the party. Both the name and anti-slavery principles of the republican party were adopted by a mass convention held at Montpelier, Vt., July 13, 1854, when candidates for state officers were nominated. A convention had been held at Rutland, June 15, which cut loose from all connection with the propagandists of slavery in the whig party and nominated Stephen Royce for governor and O. L. Shafter, since then a prominent lawyer in California, for lieutenant governor. The two tickets were afterward consolidated into Royce and Fletcher, who were elected as the first republican officers in the state.

Civil service reform prevents the offices being used for campaign agencies this year. That suits the democracy well enough. But it also prevents them from being over-turned for the benefit of the democratic workers, if they should get control of the administration. That does not suit the democracy at all. The result of these two considerations is that if the democracy get into power they will abolish civil service reform and make a clean sweep of the offices.

CITY.

FOUND DROWNED.—Alexander Dunlap, a borer employed on the work of building the wharf long [illegible], who has been missing since last Saturday, was found drowned in the river about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. J. J. [illegible] who was [illegible] on the levee saw the body rising to the surface, and being well acquainted with deceased recognized him at once. He immediately notified Coroner [illegible], who took charge of the body and held an inquest. John Donahue testified that after supper Saturday night at their boarding house, corner of [illegible] and Water streets, he came downtown with Dunlap and parted company with him on North [illegible] near Mrs. Carroll's cigar store. Since then he had not seen him alive, nor did he know of any reason. B. F. Smith, one of the contractors for whom Dunlap was working, testified that he paid the latter his wages Saturday night at [illegible] and he was back at work on Monday morning. He [illegible] There was no testimony that Dunlap had ever spoken of committing suicide or of [illegible] otherwise than [illegible] a perfectly sane man. The [illegible] are that when he returned home that night he strolled down upon the levee and, the [illegible], missed his footing and fell into the river. Examination of the body showed that there was no evidence of violence upon it except some slight abrasions on the skin upon the face which [illegible] as they had been received by falling between the timbers. The verdict of the coroner's jury was accidental drowning. Dunlap was about 50 years old, unmarried and has no kinsfolk in this state, so far as known. His nativity is also unknown.

IN THE CITY.—Yesterday afternoon an incident occurred on Front street which for originality is unique. To the rear end of a [illegible] wagon, containing a calf and driven by a boy, was attached a cow. The owners of this outfit were [illegible] by the many gentle means peculiar to the bucolic, to goad the tired beast to follow the [illegible]. The good old practices of twisting the tail, [illegible] persuasion, prodding, kicking, and so forth were freely indulged in but at last abandoned. The [illegible] feature. Then an invention was [illegible] The half drunken farmer with the [illegible] assistants, made a kind of harness [illegible]. This they passed from the wagon over the [illegible] of the cow. It was a cunningly devised [illegible] and an edifying spectacle. When [illegible] ready, the word passed to the boy driver to [illegible]. The cart moved, the ropes taut[illegible] the cow's eyes started from their sockets [illegible] and moaned under the fearful strain. [illegible] interesting point a gentleman small of [illegible] but very angry demanded of the boy how far [illegible] had walked. "Twenty miles" was the response. The small gentleman took out a pocket knife [illegible] the ropes, with the remark to the farmer [illegible] where you come from they like it, but you [illegible] in this city. To the credit of the crowd [illegible] the words received instant endorsement [illegible] was left for the time to chew the cud of [illegible]

[illegible] BE HELPED.—The water company's office [illegible] all day long with persons who wished to make complaints about the water supply. Some [illegible] had not had a drink of water, others that [illegible] been able to wash their faces, and some [illegible] get water to cook with. The reporters of THE OREGONIAN were assailed on all sides with requests to give the water company fits to burn. [illegible] The public are well aware that the town has [illegible] the water company's facilities for supplying [illegible]. The company are also aware of the fact [illegible] are spending about a quarter of a million [illegible] to remedy the matter. They managed [illegible] yesterday, with the facilities they have, to [illegible] something over 3,000,000 gallons, which, calculating the population of the city to be 30,000, was an allowance of 100 gallons for every man, woman and child in the city. This would be thought a liberal allowance in some cities, but here, [illegible] little beer is drunk and so much bathing [illegible] sprinkling is done, and where so many keep [illegible] running in order to have the water cool when they want a drink, 100 gallons a head does not [illegible]. If every one will try and be saving of the water during the hot weather, there will be less [illegible] complaint. There is no use in growling at the water company. They are doing all in their power to furnish water enough, but it is impossible [illegible] at the present rate of using it. When [illegible] works are completed there will be water in [illegible]

[illegible] OFF ST. HELENS' BAR.—A gentleman who [illegible] St. Helens yesterday and came up last night stated to an OREGONIAN reporter that the steamship Walla Walla was doing most excellent work on the bar. With the experience of two years [illegible] those in charge had secured better ground [illegible] were able to cut a better "swath" with [illegible]. It was expected to get through with [illegible] about dark to night, and that the second cut would be completed about next Saturday or Sunday. Of course the steamer is at work in midchannel, which makes it hazardous for deep draught [illegible] to pass. When the State of California came [illegible] afternoon she started to run up between [illegible] Walla Walla and Sauvie's island. Evidently [illegible] got into shoal water, because persons on St. [illegible] noticed that she took a sudden sheer to port [illegible] very near running into the Walla Walla's [illegible]. Two vessels loaded here are ready to be [illegible] down the river, but prefer to wait until the [illegible] through with the first cut and out of the [illegible]. The Lange Law is anchored below St. Helens, [illegible] probably come up to-morrow morning.

AGROUND AND GOT AFLOAT.—About 9 o'clock [illegible] morning, the steamship Oregon going [illegible] the river took a sheer and ran into the mud at the [illegible] end of Deer Island opposite Kalama. More [illegible] half of her keel was buried several feet and [illegible] fast. The E. N. Cooke, which happened [illegible], went to the Oregon's assistance and immediately made a first class dredger of herself. [illegible] made fast to starboard, her bow alongside of the [illegible] stern and her wheel abreast of the foremast. [illegible] then she worked her wheel for three hours [illegible] the mud away from under the ship and get [illegible] afloat so that she could move. At this time [illegible] the Mountain Queen came along and with a [illegible] pull got the Oregon into deep water. The mis[illegible] was caused by a pin in the steering gear dropping [illegible], rendering the apparatus useless for the [illegible]. Repairs were made while the ship was [illegible]. She proceeds to Astoria and will go to sea.

[illegible] A DIVORCE.—Emma A. Rice has begun [illegible] in the state circuit court to obtain a divorce from her husband, S. W. Rice, in which she also [illegible] for the custody of their son, Claude Thayer [illegible] years. Mrs. Rice's complaint recites at [illegible] length the domestic unhappiness of herself [illegible] husband and says that this married life has at [illegible] become unbearable to her. She does not complain of any ill-treatment caused by extreme passion [illegible] sudden anger in her husband, but says that [illegible] course of his actions toward her since [illegible] has been intended to destroy her individuality and render her a slave to his will, and that [illegible] that complete subservience on her part he [illegible] think inconsistent with his ideas of manly dignity. On this account she asks for a [illegible]

[illegible] SHOT.—A dispatch received from the [illegible] Mexico states that Charles Hamilton, who was [illegible] in the murder of I. N. Brown at Carrie [illegible] begun in this city, was shot at 7 P. M. [illegible] Saturday. Twelve men were detailed from [illegible] company to watch the soldier murdered [illegible] Hamilton belonged, to act as his [illegible] executioners. He died game, seating himself on his [illegible] refusing to have his eyes bandaged. Six [illegible] guns were loaded with ball cartridges and six [illegible] blank cartridges. Six bullets pierced the [illegible] of Hamilton and ended the life of a murderer [illegible] cold hearted man.

[illegible] TO THE PENITENTIARY.—Joseph Watson and [illegible] Jones, two out of a gang of half a dozen thieves [illegible] captured by the police, were yesterday arraigned in the state circuit court upon grand jury [illegible] indictments charging them with larceny from a dwelling. [illegible] Both pleaded guilty and were sentenced to [illegible] year's imprisonment in the penitentiary, where [illegible] were taken in the afternoon by a deputy sheriff.

[illegible] ADMITTED TO PROBATE.—In the county court yesterday the will of A. J. Hamilton deceased was filed and admitted to probate. It bequeaths all of his property, both real and personal, [illegible] after his debts, to his wife Clara, who is [illegible] made executrix. Appraisers of the estate [illegible] also appointed by the court.

[illegible] ANNOUNCED.—This morning in the state circuit court Judge Smith will announce his decisions in the following cases: Hazeltine & Co. vs. [illegible] Thompson upon the demurrer to the complaint; [illegible] Leung Wah Ling & Co. vs. Lim, Tai & Co. [illegible] a demurrer to the complaint.

[illegible] PASSENGERS.—Passed Heron yesterday [illegible] in Portland to-day: Rev. W. W. Percival [illegible] family, E. E. Charman and wife, Mrs. M. [illegible], Tillie John, Mrs. F. A. Varston, Mrs. O. W. [illegible], Miss O. W. Johnston, L. A. W. [illegible] sister [illegible]

[illegible] BOOK.—Mr. Ben. F. French, agent for [illegible] Blaine's "Twenty Years of Congress," is now [illegible] delivering the first volume to subscribers here. He is [illegible] receiving subscriptions for it, which may be [illegible] on Third street, corner of Washington.

[illegible] BURNED.—The sawmill about four miles [illegible] from Vancouver known as Zeek's mill, was totally destroyed by fire on the 2d inst., together with [illegible] considerable amount of lumber stored near by.

JOE PERRY'S PUP.—Nothing in the way of personal property will create so much litigation as a pup, when two stubborn men want possession of it. This is now being exemplified by Joe Perry and Conn Ryan over a Scotch terrier which Joe claims. Ryan was arrested and fined $25 on a charge of stealing the dog and the case was appealed. Then Perry brought a replevin suit in Justice Bushwiler's court to recover the dog, or in lieu thereof $50.75, viz.: $50 for the dog, $1.75 for the collar and $5 damages for wrongful detention. The case came up yesterday and was tried by a jury, the defendant putting up $1 fee for each of six good and true men. After hearing evidence and argument the jury retired and were unable to agree upon a verdict, though they deliberated four hours. Under one construction of the law they are not entitled to their fees, not having performed any duty. After this suit is settled Perry [illegible] bring a suit to recover damages for wounded feelings, and another to recover damages for bodily injury to the dog. Then each of the jurors may bring suit against the county for their hard earned but hardly earned dollar. On, the provocations for law suits are limitless. This is the proper time. Dog days began August 1.

SOME MEN COMFORTABLE.—As all are aware, the weather here for the past three days has been uncomfortably warm, in fact hot compared with the weather usual here. A gentleman who has just arrived here from Chicago says the weather is quite comfortable. A cattle man who arrived from Wasco county yesterday made the same remark. He says that on Monday he rode from Alkali forty miles across country to Grant's landing. At 9 o'clock in the morning the thermometer stood at ninety degrees, at 11 o'clock it stood at eleventy and at noon the mercury had blown the top off the tube and was climbing the tallest trees in its efforts to get high enough. He would have perished but that he came across a ranch where was a shanty house full of watermelons, which refreshed him. In his ride he saw much fine grain, and at Scott's farm, ten miles from Grant's station, he saw a threshing machine threshing up ten acres of barley which had yielded 700 bushels. The potato crop all through that section is the finest ever seen, notwithstanding that there has been but little rain.

NO FISH LADDER.—Hon. Wallace Baldwin of Corvallis, fish commissioner for Oregon, advertised a few weeks since for proposals for the erection of a fish ladder at Oregon City. Several bids were received and considerable interest manifested in the enterprise. It was found, however, that the proposal of the lowest responsible bidder was several thousand dollars in excess of the amount appropriated by the legislature, which it will be remembered was but $5000. It was deemed inadvisable to commence the erection of the ladder and be compelled to suspend operations as soon as the appropriation was exhausted. It being the desire of the commissioner to have erected one that would not only answer every purpose for the present, but one that would last for many years to come, and prove in every detail satisfactory to all parties directly interested and to the taxpayers throughout the state, Mr. [illegible] concluded to let the matter rest and ask the next legislature to appropriate a sufficient amount to insure a first class ladder.

ARRESTED FOR FRAUD.—J. Lewis, formerly a saloon keeper at Albina, was brought before Justice Greene yesterday charged by A. Johnson with what is known in the common law as "gross fraud and cheat." Johnson alleges that he bought from Lewis some billiard tables and made payments thereon, and that thereafter Lewis transferred them to the A. P. Hotaling Co. He was held to answer before the grand jury in $ [illegible] bonds. An effort will be made to secure [illegible] release upon a writ of habeas corpus.

COUNTY CONTRACT AWARDED.—The county commissioners have awarded to F. H. Walker the contract for the construction of the elevated roadway to Vancouver over the Columbia river bottoms. The length of the roadway or bridge will be 3045 feet, and according to the contract must be completed on or before October 10. Mr. Walker's bid was $1847, and was the lowest bid for the work that was received by the commissioners, although there were thirty two others.

CHARGED WITH STEALING A BRIDGE.—John Pride was yesterday held to answer before the grand jury by Justice Davis, upon a charge of stealing a bridge from J. Mork. The bridge was across a slough, and when high water came it floated off, and Pride gathered it in. If Mork don't want to lose his bridges he should anchor them up or teach them to stay at home.

FINGERS CRUSHED.—Edward Fagan, an employe of Smith Bros. & Watson, had the first two fingers of his left hand badly crushed yesterday morning. The bone was broken in the end of the second finger, necessitating amputation. At the time of the accident young Fagan was working about a crane, and in some manner caught his fingers in the gearing.

REPORTS FROM THE HARVEST.

All reports from the harvest in the Willamette and Umpqua valleys agree that the best harvest crop ever grown in the state is now being gathered. There has been no rain since harvest began in earnest. Following are a few reports received last night. They are indicative of the entire valley.

LINN COUNTY.

Harrisburg—Only scattering fields are coming in. Threshing crews just getting ready. Wheat will begin to come in heavy in about two weeks. The crop will be immense. Some fields already threshed turned out forty-one bushels of wheat to the acre, where there was generally raised from twenty-five to thirty two.

Halsey—There is considerable grain coming in now. All warehouses will be overrun, including the new house of about 30,000 bushels capacity on the river opposite here.

Shedds—Crops are better than at first expected. All farmers are busy threshing. Warehouses will be very full this year.

DOUGLAS COUNTY.

Roseburg—Sprinkled a little to day. There is an increase of 25 [illegible] acreage of wheat and less oats than last year. It will commence to come in in about two weeks.

Oakland—Merchants say that the crop will be more than double of last year. Farmers are threshing now and expect to commence shipping wheat within a week. Little rain to day; no damage.

MARION COUNTY.

Jefferson—Prospects are very good; farmers very busy. Several threshing machines started this week. Early grain is first rate. Some late grain damaged by rust, but the yield will be as good as of last year.

Gervais—Farmers very busy threshing and say wheat is much heavier than expected. Fall grain is all cut.

YAMHILL COUNTY.

McMinnville—The present outlook is good. Farmers report wheat but slightly damaged by late rain. This county will have larger crops this year than for some years past. Farmers are getting along with harvest well. Grain is of good quality and well filled.

POLK COUNTY.

Independence—Harvesting in progress here for last week or ten days. Crops not damaged much by late rain. Farmers say they never had better crop than this season.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

Cornelius—We will have the finest crops around here we have had for a long time. Farmers have commenced to thresh, and wheat is turning out fine.

LANE COUNTY.

Eugene—The wheat crop is averaging well. Farmers all busy cutting and threshing. Wheat not damaged any by late rains.

BRIEF MENTION.

Regular council meeting to-night.

Charles Cole has accepted a position in the post office.

The Lurline will make her usual trip on Saturday evening.

William Goldberg was yesterday admitted to citizenship in the state circuit court.

Mrs. M. T. Collins leaves for Collins' landing with three grandchildren this morning.

Paul Boudrie for selling liquor to Indians, was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Deady.

There is an important dispatch at the police office from Butte, Montana, for George Buo.

O. Franklin was yesterday fined $150 for selling liquor without a license. Let the good work go on.

Sheriff Jordan yesterday turned over the property of the Multnomah Lumbering Co. to the assignee W. B. Honeyman.

The steamer Clara Parker brought up a cargo of staves from down the river and will return to Ilwaco at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mrs. Small, the insane woman, was safely lodged in the asylum by Deputy Sheriff Wiener, although she made several attempts to escape.

Fred Sage and C. A. Gove and family have each taken their horses and buggies to north beach, and are now enjoying the drive over the finest beach in the world.

The great new hotel at New Tacoma will be formally opened with a hop next Friday evening. About 150 invitations have been issued to persons here for the event.

A locust tree at the northwest corner of the Mechanics pavilion is putting forth a number of blossoms. Other trees of the same species are now loaded with ripened seeds.

Dr. Hill of the Magneto-Electric Institute, corner Third and Morrison streets, has placed in operation a new apparatus, which is capable of generating 400 gallons of pure oxygen daily.

A circular was issued by the O. R. & N. Co. yesterday, announcing that hereafter no passes would be issued to families of employes. Deserving applicants will receive half-fare permits.

There will be a special meeting for young men only this evening, in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association. The subject will be one of special importance to young men. All are cordially invited to come.

Burglars entered the residence of Ed. Carr, on Water street near Jefferson, about daylight yesterday morning, but were frightened away by Carr waking and speaking to them under the impression that some one had come to call him to his duties on the ferry boat.

AMUSEMENTS.

CHARLOTTE THOMPSON.—"Jane Eyre" drew a good audience last evening at New Market theater. Miss Thompson was as easy, as graceful and as effective as on the opening evening. Her impersonation in every respect is worthy of being classed among the very best with which this discriminating public have had the pleasure and edification of witnessing on the New Market stage for years. She is one of the foremost emotional actresses now on the American stage. Mr. Craig improves on acquaintance. His rendering of the proud, austere character of Lord Rochester was a thoroughly polished, intelligent and artistic effort. He shared, deservedly, the honors of [illegible] with Miss Thompson, being called before the curtain with her lady [illegible] end of the second act. Mr. [illegible] deserves special mention for his very capital rendition of the character of Achille Dejeon. His natural Frenchiness, shrugs and grimaces were excessively laughable. His odd but very quaint, original, colloquial thrusts never failed to receive a "round" and a laugh. J. L. Wooderson, as Jacob Butterpup, the major domo of Thornfield, gave a splendid piece of character acting—as clever and funny as any one could wish to see. He and Mr. Yerence furnished all the necessary comedy. "Jane Eyre" will be repeated this evening; to-morrow night, "Miss Multon," Friday and Saturday, "Nell Gwynne," Saturday matinee, "Jane Eyre."

THE EAST PORTLAND FIRE.

Further Particulars of the Conflagration—Full List of Losses and Insurance.

Now the smoke has cleared away and coolness and deliberation has succeeded the heat and excitement of the previous night, a more complete and extended report of East Portland's great fire than that appearing yesterday is possible. The fire broke out at the rear of James Riddell's saloon on Fourth street, adjoining Logan & Irvin's drug store, on the corner of Fourth and L, and the first alarm was given by Terris DuBoise firing a pistol and yelling fire. Officer Jerrusman and others who were on the street at the time about a quarter to 1 at once repaired to the engine house, rang an alarm and ran the hose cart to the corner of Fourth and L, where two attachments were made with the hydrant located there and two good streams obtained. The buildings attacked, however, were easy prey to the devouring element and burned too rapidly to be effectively checked by the means at hand. The two story building on the corner and Henry Warren's cigar stand adjoining on Fourth street were soon [illegible] possibility [illegible] the fire [illegible] from the corner of Third and L streets around to the corner of Fourth and [illegible] L were [illegible] occupied. [illegible] on the corner of Fourth and J street [illegible] two powerful streams on the fire. The water taken by the engine, however, rendered the hydrant on the corner of Fourth and L [illegible] useless, and the water main west of Fourth or [illegible] burst [illegible] just below the hydrant being used by the engine. The streams were kept incessantly on the fire from the north [illegible] when directed across the street [illegible] check [illegible] knotty which [illegible] destruction [illegible] Relief [illegible] No. 1 of [illegible] ward responded promptly but having no means to haul their hose about half an hour elapsed before an express wagon could be secured [illegible] Chief Engineer [illegible] [illegible] over No. 2's engine with Relief [illegible] about the same time as Relief Co., [illegible] their hose was connected with the [illegible] corner of Third and [illegible] a [illegible] buildings and [illegible] it proved [illegible] [illegible] railway on Third street and [illegible] land supply [illegible] hose being reduced for the purpose [illegible] that portion remaining was not sufficient to reach the fire from the river [illegible] only practicable means of water supply [illegible] and a call was made upon Chief Engineer [illegible] to supply its deficiency. East Portland's stock of hose, however, was all in service, and it became necessary to send to Portland for additional hose. The delay thus caused proved disastrous [illegible] fire spread west on L street to the pork packing establishment of Charles Logus on the corner of Third, [illegible] destruction the range of buildings on the opposite side of L street extending from Third to Fourth street. To make matters worse the Portland company met with exceeding bad luck. When [illegible] they [illegible] [illegible] hose [illegible] working order [illegible] and the coupling was broken at the fifth [illegible] [illegible] spread [illegible] Third street [illegible] from taking [illegible] Chinese wash house [illegible] The pork packing [illegible] wind blowing [illegible] the range [illegible] Third street. The heat was intense, [illegible] firemen approaching within [illegible] range was [illegible] most incredibly short [illegible] the most strenuous efforts were made to prevent the fire from crossing K street to the Home hotel [illegible] Fourth street [illegible] crowned with success. The Third Ward Company [illegible] hand, and rendered effective service [illegible] whole department [illegible] accorded too much praise. Mr. [illegible] of the Home hotel [illegible] there who saved his property from destruction [illegible] This evidence of his appreciation [illegible] by the thanks of the large number of [illegible] more who accepted of his hospitality. THE NEW FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

Explanation of the Uses of the Hayward Hand Grenade.

Portland on either side of the river, has suffered severely from time to time, from destruction of property by fire. Some of these conflagrations could not have been prevented by any possible forethought, while others were the result of carelessness or other forms of culpability. There would still remain, however, quite an important proportion of fires which might have been got under control while confined to very limited area, had adequate appliances been at hand for the extinguishing. Fire is so terrible and its immediate and remote consequences so disastrous to the individual and community that any invention which claims to give a percentage of immunity from large fires must be regarded with favor, and should be examined with a view to comparing the actual merits with the claims.

The Hayward hand grenade [illegible] brought to Portland from the east [illegible] extensively [illegible] The official public trial was placed in charge of the fire department [illegible] The tests seem to have been [illegible] demonstrate the invention capable of [illegible] [illegible] has arisen [illegible] the trials and the following [illegible] explanation of how the invention works may be of interest.

The introduction of a light into certain gases will cause the light to burn dimly or will extinguish it according to the extent to which the gas which is a poor supporter of combustion is present or evolved. This principle is taken practical advantage of in the construction of a hand grenade. A glass flagon, brittle and easily broken, of about four and one half inches diameter is filled with a fluid which has neither taste, odor or any harmful qualities if swallowed or spilled upon any fabrics with water would not injure. This fluid has, however, such chemical constituents that when the flagon is broken and the contents fall upon any burning matter a gas is given off [illegible] by the fire itself but this gas will [illegible] support combustion and the fire [illegible] entirely within the area [illegible] by the [illegible] [illegible] Practical tests [illegible] of experiment before the fire department [illegible] [illegible] evolved gas enough to extinguish a very hot and actively burning fire having a burning area of nearly fifty feet with forty fire[illegible]. More than this does not seem to be claimed for [illegible] but emergencies [illegible] a few grenades would put out a fire and valuable property [illegible]

WORKINGMEN'S ORGANIZATION.

A Manifesto Against Cleveland—Reasons for his Opposition.

CHICAGO, July [illegible]—To the workingmen and labor organizations of the United States. Greeting: We [illegible] the national convention of [illegible] committee assembled at the Briggs house in the city [illegible] first call [illegible] as a matter of duty [illegible] the action taken by the self styled executive committee and published in the press of to day adjourning the convention to the year 1888 to give you the exact facts in the case as we have been able to obtain them.

William A. A. Carsey and four other men from New York met at the Briggs the evening of the 19th with closed doors assuming the powers of the executive committee passed a resolution adjourning the convention, and also a series of resolves calculated to aid in the election of Mr. Cleveland and styling him the reform governor of New York, citing and approving the many acts passed under his administration that entitle him to the votes of the workingmen, all of which was done before sufficient delegates had arrived to counteract their influence and upon the arrival of the delegates they were simply informed that the convention was declared off. Many of the delegates immediately went home in disgust.

In view of the action of the self constituted executive committee in indorsing Mr. Cleveland we desire to call your earnest attention to the following reasons why you should not cast your vote for Grover Cleveland for president.

First—He vetoed the bill abolishing contract child labor in the charitable and reformatory institutions of the state.

Second—He signed the bill reducing pilotage fees 20 per cent, a bill in the interest of foreign corporations.

Third—He approved the law compelling working engineers to pay a tax of $2 a year for the enrichment of a pension fund of a liberally compensated body of public servants.

Fourth—He vetoed the five-cent fare bill, a measure calculated to enable workingmen and their families to reach the suburbs away from the tenement districts at a low rate.

Fifth—He signed the civil service bill, a measure calculated to encourage only college educated citizens to reach the public service, thereby creating an aristocracy of officeholders.

Sixth—He appointed a man to administer the bureau of labor statistics of the state of New York who was an opponent of the reforms which the labor interests (whose influence had created the bureau) had desired and formulated. A man wholly unacquainted with its wants and indifferent to its welfare, and in this connection we cite as a contrast the fact that President Arthur has selected a laboring man for the position of chief of the national labor bureau [illegible] the [illegible] which are to [illegible] and to whose [illegible] the creation of those bureaus is due.

Seventh—He vetoed the bill limiting car drivers' hours of labor to twelve hours per day, thus confessing [illegible] self ignorant of the grave national question underlying the labor movement.

Eighth—He vetoed the Mechanics' Lien law, a bill designed to give labor the first lien on a building in course of erection.

Ninth—He failed to advocate in his message to the legislature prompt and practical legislation to meet the wish of the people expressed at the polls last fall against the system of convict contract labor which was declared abolished by a vote of 139,000 majority brought out by the state executive committee of the labor organizations at the expense of which was largely contributed by the members of the delegation.

Tenth—His appointment of a majority of the members of the railroad commission of New York who were hostile to the interests which created that board, thus defeating the object for which the commission was established and making it a tender to the corporate monopolies of the state.

These only are [illegible] by the labor sentiment of the cities of New York, Albany, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo [illegible] published in circular form. We [illegible] subscribe ourselves, Charles Hasse of Michigan, chairman; A. C. Rankin of Pennsylvania, secretary; [illegible] of Michigan; Peter McGullough of Massachusetts; [illegible] Michigan; [illegible] executive committee of delegates.

THE ILLUSTRIOUS DUKE.

How Wellington Behaved Before and After Waterloo.

Wellington frequently exhibited an almost unparalleled generosity. His thoughtfulness, too, and love for his soldiers were marked traits of his character. When the terrible day at Waterloo was over it is said that the duke's feelings so long kept at the highest tension utterly gave way, and that as he rode amid the groans of the wounded and the reeling carnage and heard the cries of the vanquished and the shouts of the victors, fainter and fainter through the gloom of night, he burst into tears. Soon after he penned a letter which concluded thus:

"I have escaped unhurt; the finger of Providence was on me." And later on he wrote these words: "My heart is broken by the terrible loss I have sustained in my old friends and companions and poor soldiers. Believe me nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won. The bravery of my troops has hitherto saved me from the greater evil, but to win such a battle as this of Waterloo at the expense of so many gallant friends could be termed only a heavy misfortune but for the result to the public."

The following morning Dr. Hume hastened by the duke's orders to his tent, there to read to him the terrible list of the dead and wounded. He found the duke asleep, but not daring to break his commands awoke him. In an instant, "we are told," his grace dressed as he was in full regimentals was sitting on the bed side. "Read!" was the significant command. For more than an hour has the doctor read aloud the harrowing list and then his voice failed and his throat choked with emotion. He tried to continue, but could not. Instinctively he raised his eyes to the duke. Wellington was still sitting with his hands raised and clasped convulsively before him. Big tears were coursing down his cheeks. In a moment the duke was conscious of the doctor's silence, and, recovering himself, looked up and caught his eye. "Read on," was the stern command, and while his physician continued for four hours, the Iron Duke sat by the bedside, clasping his hands and working his body to and fro with emotion.

A Spark of the old Fanatical Fire

Norwich Bulletin.

The close of a hallelujah banquet at Norwich Monday night was marked along toward breakfast time Tuesday morning by a declaration from Mrs. Captain Shirley of Lawrence, Massachusetts, that plumes and finery were a barrier to the enjoyment of full sanctification. This so affected many of the well dressed women present that they took their expensively trimmed bonnets from their heads and tore from them the ostrich plumes, the attractive flowers and the ribbons, and threw them to Major Moore, who crumpled the costly finery in his hand and threw it upon the floor until there was a pile sufficient to fill a half bushel basket representing many dollars in value.

One of the Largest of Black Perch

Oregonian (N. C.) Spokesman.

John Julian and Amos Jarrell caught a fish in Polecat creek near Curtis' mill, in Randolph county last Saturday, which is supposed to be a black perch. The weight and dimensions of the fish as reported to this office are as follows: Weight, 11½ pounds; length, 31 inches; size of head around the gills 16 inches. The size of the mouth after some drying out which must have reduced it somewhat is 31 by 4 inches. From all appearances it is a black perch, but it is of a wonderful size and we cannot account for it. The open mouth of the fish is a marvel. Such teeth we never saw in any fish in our waters.

A Cyclone to Order for Five Cents

Adrian Times.

Professor Douglas of the State university, it is said, produces amateur cyclones at will. He does it by suspending a large copper plate by silken cords. This plate is charged heavily with electricity, which hangs down like a bag underneath, and is rendered visible by the use of araenious acid gas, which gives it a green color. The formation is a miniature cyclone as perfect as any started in the clouds. It is funnel shaped and whirls around rapidly. Passing this plate over a table, the five-cent cyclone snatches up copper cents, pens, pith balls, and other objects and scatters them on all sides.

How He Will Do It.

Philadelphia Press.

Carl Schurz is translating the political speeches of George William Curtis into German for circulation as democratic campaign documents. He proposes to set that speech of Mr. Curtis at Chicago, to the effect that the democratic party hadn't a sin to be honest principle, to an allegretto movement for the trombone.

CHINAMAN MURDERED.

Wong Bin Shot in the Back by a Fellow Countryman—Exciting Time Over the Capture of the Murderer.

About 6 o'clock last evening a Chinaman rushed into the police office and said that a man had just been shot in a gambling house on Second street between Alder and Morrison. Policemen Morgan and Henline at once started for the place, which was near the fire house, and in a little room at the rear of the gambling house Morgan found a Chinaman named Wong Bin, alias Jim Paug, lying on the floor with the blood oozing from a wound in the small of his back. He stated that he had been shot by Lee Sung, and thought he would die. He lived only a few minutes. Morgan and Henline started out in search of the murderer and after a short search found he was concealed in a Chinese bagnio on Morrison street between Second and Third. When the officers attempted to enter the room at the rear where the desperate fellow was [illegible] to shoot them. Morgan returned [illegible] Fireman Tennant and James [illegible] arriving [illegible] fire was opened on the fellow [illegible] the darkness of the room could not be seen. He returned the firing [illegible] the [illegible] the heads of the officers none of whom were hit. [illegible] went around to the rear of the shanty and [illegible] the wall through which Sung [illegible] began firing. Nine [illegible] shots were fired by [illegible] three times that many by the police, one of which [illegible] back of Lee Sung's leg causing him [illegible] pain. Seeing that it was likely to cost the lives of some good men to capture the murderer [illegible] Parrish determined to drown him out and at his request Engine Co. No. 1 laid a hose from a hydrant on the corner of First and Morrison, and [illegible] building. This seemed to be [illegible] Sung [illegible] and stop [illegible] fire. He [illegible] and when asked to [illegible] At length Henry Krewer [illegible] the murderer [illegible] him and [illegible] Police [illegible] would not let the [illegible] hurt him [illegible] accordingly [illegible] very [illegible] surrendered to the officer and was taken to the city jail. He was armed with an [illegible] revolver [illegible] and was [illegible]

[illegible] and Third streets in the vicinity were crowded with people, many of whom climbed on awnings and the tops of buildings in order to get a view and be out of the way of stray bullets. When the fellow was secured a cry of lynch him was raised and followed the police to the city jail around which they clustered like a swarm [illegible]. Two other Chinamen were arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the murder. One of them, Lee Foy, had a huge holster pistol on his person and a hatchet as keen as a razor, and the other had a big knife.

As usual in such cases it is difficult to obtain any definite knowledge as to the cause of the shooting. All are aware that there are several Chinese companies here, among whom there is much strife and jealousy. The murderer Lee Sung belongs to the Lee company, the most powerful of them all, which owns the gambling house in which the murder occurred. He is the same fellow who [illegible] a Chinaman in a hallway hereabouts two years ago. He was sent to the penitentiary for [illegible] and has not long been discharged from that place.

The murdered man Wong Bin was a member of the Wong Company. He met Lee Sung in the penitentiary, having been sent up there for pounding a friend over the head with an iron bar. As he got only the year for this assault, he left Lee Sung there. STATEMENT FROM W. ENDICOTT, JR.

BOSTON, July 28.

To the Editor of The Oregonian.

My attention has been called to a communication from Mr. J. B. Montgomery which appeared in your paper a few weeks since, in which it is stated that I advised with Mr. Villard in reference to the lease of the Oregonian Railway to the O. R. & N. Co.

This statement is entirely without foundation. The first intimation that I had that any such lease was proposed was on reading in your paper the proceedings of the meeting of the stockholders of the Oregonian Company in Scotland confirming the lease. The lease was made and ratified some two months before I knew anything of it.

Yours truly, W. ENDICOTT, JR.

DRIVEN TO FRENZY.

The Royal Baking Powder Company are driven to frenzy in their efforts to extricate themselves from the charge made by the chemists of the nation against the fitness, the safety and the cleanliness of the Powerful Drug AMMONIA in their powder.

Ridicule and abuse, bombastic statements, extravagant assertions, crying dirt and lime will not answer. Though they paint it an inch thick, to this complexion it will come at last, "if an evil drug" is the secret of the preparation so painted.

Dr. Charles A. Pauly, a well known physician of Cincinnati, said to a reporter of the Commercial Gazette: "Ammonia is a drug of great and sometimes dangerous power." "Its use in the substance of mankind, in any of its forms, is dangerous and improper." The Royal Baking Powder contains Ammonia, and its manufacturers DARE NOT DENY IT.

For the purity, wholesomeness, and freedom from lime and Ammonia of

and the impurity and Ammonia in the Royal Baking Powder, we refer to the following chemists and physicians of the highest national recognition and authority:

PROTECTION.

Every housewife can try the "Royal" or any brand of Baking Powder, by placing the can, top down, on a hot stove till heated. Remove the cover, and if there, she will smell AMMONIA—HARTSHORN. After which she can change it for Price's, that has nothing base in it.

THE STORY OF CHARLEY ROSS.

The Tragedy of the Hearth and the Broken Hearts Around It.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—I stood for a long time before a picture yesterday, the life-size portrait of a lovely, laughing child. The face was that of a boy of four years, fair and dimpled, with a little rosy mouth just made for kissing, large, clear brown eyes, through which a happy little soul shone brightly, and soft, flaxen curls shading a broad, white brow, and falling about a round, white neck.

"That is Charley, my little Charley," said the master of the house sadly, and, looking from his careworn, nervous face to the cherub vision on the wall for the first time an understanding of the tragedy of Charley Ross dawned upon me, and for the benefit of the new generation and those to whom the hero of a mournful tale has been but a newspaper myth I am going to take up the freshest threads of a well worn story, as related to me by Mr. Ross in view of the green lane where his little son was stolen from him.

The house itself is situated at the end of a broad and beautiful place in Germantown called East Washington lane. On both sides of it are handsome, substantial mansions of gray granite, such as Pennsylvanians love, and built far back from the road in the midst of spreading lawns, shaded by fine trees and sprinkled with beds of gay flowers. More peaceful and beautiful surroundings one could hardly find, and a miniature farm of a few acres, now dotted with sweet-smelling hay-cocks, next to Mr. Ross' place, even suggested the country.

The house of Mr. Ross is a spacious double one, built of stone and surmounted by a cupola. It stands on the summit of a great slope, and with its broad piazzas covered with climbing honey suckles and roses, its huge baskets of plants and ferns, and its friendly elms and oaks, looks a secure and pleasant retreat from the noise and turmoil, the dust and confusion of the world.

Sitting on the front veranda, I remarked how thoroughly the great hedge of fir trees at the foot of the lawn cut off the view of the street.

"Yes," said Mr. Ross, "too thoroughly, for it helped the wretches who stole my children to escape with them. Ten years ago the 1st of July," he continued, "my little Charley, just 4 years old, and still in petticoats, was playing in the road with his brother Walter, two years older than himself. While they were frolicking about two men came along in a wagon drawn by one horse. It seems they had seen the children before and given them candy. That day they invited the boys to get in for a little ride, promising them firecrackers and candy. They, fearing nothing, complied, and were seen, as we found later, by some of the neighbors.

"When I got home at 6 o'clock to tea, Mrs. Ross and my eldest daughter being at Atlantic City for their health, the children had not returned. The neighborhood was scoured in vain, and at 8 o'clock, on my way to the central office to telegraph the police stations, we met Walter returning home with Mr. Peacock, a friend of the family, who had found him crying bitterly on a street corner in the northern part of Philadelphia, just seven miles from home.

"The boy was nearly paralyzed with fright, but managed to relate how these men promised to take them to 'Aunt Susie's' to buy sweets and firecrackers; that they had lifted him out of the wagon and sent him into a shop to get them, and when he came out they had disappeared with Charley. The police thought that the men were on a drunken frolic and when sobered would be alarmed at what they had on [illegible] and turn Charley adrift.

"The theory proved false. On the 3d of July we advertised for him with a reward, and the next day we received an anonymous letter in disguised writing, the first of a series of twenty-three, which said the child was safe, but that no living power could discover him, and his father would have to pay a 'big cent' to get him back. The next letter demanded a ransom of $20,000, from which sum the kidnappers never abated a dot, with the alternative of putting the child to death."

It is impossible in a letter to describe the methods used for the recovery of the child and the capture of his jailers, who demanded that the money should be paid in advance of the return of the boy. While negotiations were pending, 70,000 photographs of little Charley were distributed throughout the land, and tons of handbills, posters and lithographs sown broadcast. The citizens of Philadelphia offered a reward of $20,000 for the kidnappers, of which reward the police volunteered to claim no part, and other large sums were offered from public and private sources, while the pressure put on Mr. Ross not to jeopardize the safety of every child in the land by paying the ransom was tremendous.

The police force and detective bureaus of the whole country engaged in the search, and in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey every river boat and saloon, every outhouse, stable and place of ill repute, every hotel and lodging house, tramp quarter, burglar's haunt, barn, mill, ferry and deserted hut was searched, and every building, private and public, in Philadelphia gone through. The post office and all the letter boxes were watched, detectives watched every train that left or entered the city. Human ingenuity wore itself threadbare in attempts to recover the stolen boy.

Fraud, too, found a festival in this new form of domestic calamity, and Mr. Ross received thousands of letters from spiritualists, clairvoyants and mediums, and even from blackmailers of all sorts, including convicts in jail and murderers awaiting their doom, professing knowledge of the abductors.

Then came a host of these vile creations called anonymous letters, always the work, as Superintendent Walling says, "of creatures who have all the willingness but not the courage of murder." These letters were to the police, suggesting that Mr. Ross stole his own child; that if his fine garden were dug up its bones would be discovered; that the child was not Mr. Ross', etc. One newspaper boldly printed an article embodying these suggestions, was sued for libel, severely reprimanded by the court, and obliged to pay heavy damages.

The uproar the country was in over this case, and the way man, woman and child turned detective, thoroughly alarmed the kidnappers, and they deserted plan after plan proposed to Mr. Ross for the exchange, so afraid were they of being entrapped. In the history of civilization there has never been a crime like this, nor one that as thoroughly baffled detectives.

One plan proposed by the abductors, and which involved almost fatal consequences to Mr. Ross, was that he should put the money in a valise, start from Philadelphia at night, go on to New York and thence to Albany, riding the entire distance on the platform of the rear car, and the instant he saw a torch held up by a man waving a handkerchief he was to throw the valise on the track, with the warning that if the train was stopped the child's throat would be cut.

Mr. Ross went through this frightful ordeal, standing on his feet the entire distance, every nerve on an intense strain, with the fear of missing the signal, which was looked for in vain. His own description of this heart-rending journey is thrilling, but, coming after months of mental agony and over fatigue, it terminated in a severe illness, which decided his wife and family to run the risk of paying the ransom in advance, in the faint hope that the boy would be returned; but, though all their directions were followed, the child thieves, on whose track the police now were, failed to appear, and a lull ensued for several weeks.

Then the public were electrified at hearing that two burglars had been killed while robbing a house in Bay Ridge; that one, Mosher, died instantly, and that his comrade, Douglas, lived only long enough to confess the stealing of Charley Ross, and to solemnly swear that no one but the dead man knew his whereabouts, and so it is to day that the fate of that little sunny faced, golden haired boy is still wrapped in a dark mystery.

The safety of millions of children has been purchased, it seems too sadly true, by the life of one, though the parents of that one still fondly cling to the hope that their son will some day appear among them.

"The hue and cry that rang through this great republic," said Mr. Ross, "strangled this species of crime in its birth. No one dreamed before what a hold a child of 4 years had on the heart of a nation, and, though at the time my child was stolen there was no law by which his kidnappers could be punished, this and a number of other states have since then made the crime of child-stealing for the purpose of extortion punishable by twenty five years of solitary imprisonment, with hard labor, and a fine of $15,000.

"I have," continued Mr. Ross, "examined personally into 700 cases of boys, supposed to be my son, since his disappearance; have traveled thousands of miles in pursuit of him, and spent over $60,000 in trying to trace him in vain. In the first two years alone over 300 children, scattered from Maine to San Francisco, and even in England, Scotland, Cuba, Nova Scotia and Canada, were supposed to be my child from the resemblance to his pictures or the mystery surrounding them. I have often thought of the extraordinary number, if girls are included, of children about whose existence and surroundings there was something suspicious."

"Has this hunt for Charley ever resulted in the return of any lost children to their parents?"

"Yes, of a number; for, though mine was the first case in which a ransom had been put, other children have been stolen by tramps to beg for them, and even in some cases taken for personal revenge. The most pitiful case I know was that of little Henry Lachmuller of St. Louis, who was [illegible] from his [illegible] garden by two tramps [illegible] them, and [illegible] offered large rewards, and employed every available means to recover his child, travelling all over Europe, and several times in this country advertising his loss, but in vain.

"Well, one day I received a letter from Chester, Ill., describing the tramps who had been brutal in their treatment of a child supposed to be Charley, and to disguise him had thrown acids into his face, badly disfiguring him, dyed his hair and scarred his poor little body. My brother James went on at once, and saw that it was not our lost lamb; but the publicity given the case reached Mr. Lachmuller, and, on the bare supposition of its being his son, he came on, and found, indeed, that it was his child.

"Strangely enough, though the villainous treatment he had been subjected to had made the boy forget even his name and the place where he came from, he recognized his father with a scream of joy. There has also been another class of cases in which, though the proper parents could not be found, the children have been taken away from the wretches who had them in charge and been properly taken care of by the authorities."

"How do you account for this large number of stray children?"

"A great many of them never can be accounted for. Some have left asylums or homes; many are illegitimate, and quite a number belong to families in which domestic unhappiness has prompted either the father or the mother to take them away and keep them in concealment. There are also instances where the children have been purposely put on trains and deserted, or where they have run away from guardians glad to get rid of them. Children are not unfrequently found among Italian or gypsy bands who cannot be accounted for.

"Yes," continued Mr. Ross, in reply to a question, "dozens of children have looked me in the face and said their name was Charley Ross. In fact that name has become the synonym of a lost child and it is frequently given to children in poor-houses and asylums. Hardly a week passes without a letter or a clew of some sort being sent to me now, and, of course, the claimants are frequent. Why, a fortnight ago a little tramp, calling himself Charley Ross, looked me right in the eye and said he remembered my singing him to sleep with Moody and Sankey hymns. I never sang a tune in my life."

"Do you believe your son is living now?"

"I do not know what to believe any more than you do; but until I know he is dead his mother and I shall watch for his coming," concluded Mr. Ross, with emotion.

Six other lovely children played about the Ross homestead, one of them a fairy girl bearing a striking likeness to her lost brother, but as I walked back through the shady lanes to the station I was struck by the fact that, though ten summers had fled since the cruel robbery, not a child could be seen frolicking on the highways.

HOT WEATHER LITERATURE.

What Books are Most Read in Summer and at the Seashore.

"We can already begin to see the effects of this hot weather on our readers," said the librarian of an extensive circulating library yesterday. "Probably 90 per cent. of the books that go out are of fiction, and instead of calling for such as are at all thoughtful or historical, there is more of a demand for 'The Duchess'' books, Ouida's and a lighter kind generally. We find, too, that our custom shows signs of falling off after May 15, and is less in summer than in the other seasons. This is, of course, largely attributable to the fact that so many of the people who read go away during the hot weather. They don't give up reading, but small parties combine, make up a purse of $5 or $6 and with this get enough numbers of the Seaside or Munro editions to make a little circulating library sufficient to last through the summer.

"And, by the way, these cheap editions of standard foreign books are seriously changing the character of our libraries. Nowadays only old ladies or Anglomaniacs will read the regulation three-volume English novels, and we find they are lumbering up our shelves, with no demand for them. Everybody wants the cheap editions, even in serious works. Thank heavens, the copyright law still protects the books of American authors, but we are constantly being asked for the works of Howells and James in the cheap forms. I always hate to hand out these cheap things, that are practically thefts out of an author's pockets, but we have to do it to comply with the wishes of our patrons.

"The demand for fiction continues about the same and women continue to be our best support. Fully 85 per cent. of our readers are women, and their taste doesn't seem to change. Dickens, Thackeray, Bulwer and the standards hold their own. Coming back to the influence of the weather, however, perhaps there is a little more solid reading in winter than in summer, but in our circulating libraries such books are rather at a discount. Fiction is the great rage, and that is coming to be almost our entire business."

How Phil. Thompson Passed.

Harrodsburg Democrat.

When Col. Phil. B. Thompson joined the confederacy with his three sons, the oldest, now Dr. D. M. Thompson, of St. Paul, Minn., was scarcely 17, and the twins, John B. Jr., and Phil. B. Jr., were only 15. After four years' hard service they returned to their old home. They all went to work, the old gentleman to his profession, and little Phil. took a school in the Shaker Bend neighborhood. His examination for a certificate was satisfactory. Hon. T. C. Bell, then fairly started in his profession, gave the document a brief examination. It was thus: "How old were you Phil. when you joined the rebel army, and how long did you serve?" "I was 15 and served four years." Looking in his bright eyes and regarding him for a moment, he said: "Phil., you will pass—I will give you the certificate." Unlike most self-made men, Hon. Phil. B. Thompson does not worship his "maker." He doesn't even wear gloves.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY, Aug. 5.

[illegible] attention was called [illegible] the misleading circulars being sent out from the east to wool growers, the up country papers were inclined to believe that our remarks were made altogether in the interest of Portland merchants. The Walla Walla Statesman, of late date, says that Cox Bros., of Walla Walla county, made shipments of wool from Wallula to Philadelphia, and they lately received letters from the assignees stating freight charges had been more than expected. The charges amounted to 5c per pound instead of $2.81 per hundred, as they were led to expect by the circulars. The Statesman promises more on this subject soon.

Overland receipts include 100 cs syrup, 15 tubs butter, 5 tcs hams, 10 cs eggs, 50 cs lemons, 3 cs cigarettes, 13 pkgs tobacco, 180 cs bottled beer.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 1201 bbls flour, 630 ctls oats, 10 sks potatoes, 8770 lbs wool, 2890 lbs hides, 64 cs eggs, 42 bxs fruit, 7 pkgs butter, 1620 bbls lime. Also 762 ctls wheat, 345 bbls flour, 35,724 lbs wool, 40 bxs fruit from the eastern section.

EXPORTS—Per str Oregon to San Francisco: 2340 hf sks flour, 5753 sks bran, 121,582 lbs wool, 74 bbls salmon, 41 hf bbls salmon bellies, 193 [illegible] 306 green hides, 11 bdls kip and calf skins, 36 bls sheep skins, 1 bl furs, 9 bls deer skins, 3 cs cassimeres, 4 cs flannels, 2 bls lining, 6 bls 1 cs blankets, 3 sks dry peaches, 330 pkgs bbl material, 150,000 lath, $25,163 treasure.

Per Br ship City of Delhi to Liverpool, by Meyer, Wilson & Co.: 4710 ctls wheat, valued at $6162, and 48,820 cs salmon, valued at $201,890.

SALMON SHIPMENTS—Per City of Delhi—Hapgood 3600, Scandinavian 3690, Cutting 2000, Cook 2000, Booth 3000, J. Hume 7700, Anglo-American 2400, Astoria Packing Company 600, W. Hume 7500, West 3400, Thistle 1500, Williams 1500, Columbia Canning Company 1500, Fisherman's 1500, G. W. Hume 1875, Point Adams 1250, Aberdeen 1475, West Coast 1250. Total, 48,820 cases.

FREIGHTS—Nothing doing on which to base a quotation. In San Francisco the wooden bottoms are fast being taken up, and rates are not even.

WHEAT—Advices continue of a slow character and there is nothing healthy in other markets. At home business is at a standstill, and will certainly be later than it was last year.

OATS—Receipts liberal and market weak at 40@42½c for feed lots.

FRUITS—No change to note in quotations. Recent importations and arrivals go off very satisfactorily to consignees.

POTATOES—The drag is continued and prices show no improvement.

CHICKENS—Not so firm, but quotations are not lowered. Young, $2 50@3 50; old, $4@5.

EGGS—Weak at 22½c. More eastern came in to-day and were on bakers' account.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Oregon sailed at 4:25 A. M. with 523 tons of freight. She was run aground off Kalama by disarranged steering gear.

The City of Delhi cleared from Astoria for Liverpool yesterday.

The Æolus crossed out to-day, lumber laden for Panama.

The tug Astoria, belonging to Captain Flavel, has left for San Francisco. She will have new machinery placed and thoroughly repaired. The tug was built at San Francisco in 1869, going into service on the bar early in 1870.

Caleb Cushing Silenced.

Joseph M. Blake in Providence Journal.

With all the campaigns of Napoleon he was perfectly familiar. Once he met Caleb Cushing at my office, and this gentleman, whose knowledge was very extensive, but who was sometimes apt to make a display of his recent reading, and who had evidently been looking at a new work about Napoleon, began to talk to Mr. Blake about one of his campaigns. Mr. Blake led him along by questions until it became very evident that his knowledge was more general than accurate, and then turned upon him with a detailed account so concise and clear that it might seem to have been the subject of his special study. Mr. Cushing withdrew from the discussion and changed the subject, and the next day I received a note from Mr. Blake in which he said: "Please don't tell anybody how Mr. Cushing exposed my ignorance!"

Roasted in a Chimney.

Paris American Register.

An extraordinary case of superstition is reported from the south of France. A woman at Thueyts, in the Ardeche, had taken a child to wet-nurse, when her milk suddenly failed her. She imagined she had been bewitched by an old woman of 80 in the neighborhood, and had her brought to the house by her husband. The man suspended the unfortunate creature by the pothook in the chimney and roasted her feet, and, as this treatment did not produce a fresh flow of milk for the child, the peasant and his wife put the old woman's feet in an iron pot filled with water which was made to boil. The victim died after fearful sufferings, and her murderers have been arrested.

Since boyhood I have been troubled with Catarrh and Hay-Fever, and have been unable to obtain any relief until I used Ely's Cream Balm. [illegible] [illegible]—E. L. Crosby, New Brunswick, N. J.

DYSPEPSIA.

Sedentary habits, mental worry, nervous excitement, excess or imprudence in eating or drinking, and various other causes, induce Constipation followed by general derangement of the liver, kidneys, and stomach, in which the disorder of each organ increases the abnormality of the others.

The immediate results are Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Foul Breath, Heartburn, Flatulence, Dizziness, Sick Headaches, failure of physical and mental vigor, distressing sense of weight and fullness in the stomach, and increased Costiveness, all of which are known under one head as Dyspepsia.

In every instance where this disease does not originate from scrofulous taint in the blood, AYER'S PILLS may be confidently relied upon to effect a cure. Those cases not amenable to the curative influence of AYER'S PILLS alone will certainly yield if the PILLS are aided by the powerful blood-purifying properties of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

Dyspeptics should know that the longer treatment of their malady is postponed, the more difficult of cure it becomes.

Ayer's Pills

Never fail to relieve the bowels and promote their healthful and regular action, and thus cure Dyspepsia. Temporary palliatives all do permanent harm. The fitful activity into which the enfeebled stomach is spurred by "bitters," and alcoholic stimulants, is inevitably followed by reaction that leaves the organ weaker than before.

"Costiveness, induced by my sedentary habits of life, became chronic; AYER'S PILLS afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me all right." HERMANN BRINGHOFF, Newark, N. J.

"I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a sufferer. I found their action easy and obtained prompt relief. They have benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried." M. V. WATSON, 152 State St., Chicago, Ill.

"They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and vastly improved my general health." REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, Atlanta, Ga.

"The most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain." W. L. PAGE, Richmond, Va.

"A sufferer from Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Neuralgia for the last twenty years, AYER'S PILLS have benefited me more than any medicine I have ever taken." P. R. ROGERS, Needmore, Brown Co., Ind.

"For Dyspepsia they are invaluable." J. T. HAYES, Mexia, Texas.

WOMAN'S SUFFERING AND RELIEF.

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special causes of periodical pain are permanently removed. None receive so much benefit and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women.

A Postal Card Story.

I was affected with kidney and urinary Trouble—

"For twelve years!"

After trying all the doctors and patent medicines I could hear of, I used two bottles of Hop "Bitters;"

And I am perfectly cured. Keep it.

"All the time!" [illegible] Salisbury, [illegible] May 1, 1883.

Bradford, Pa., May 8, 1875.

It has cured me of several diseases, such as nervousness, sickness at the stomach, monthly troubles, etc. I have not seen a sick day in a year, since I took Hop Bitters. All my neighbors use them.

MRS. FANNIE GREEN.

$3000 Lost.

"A tour to Europe that cost me $3000 done me less good than one bottle of Hop Bitters; they also cured my wife of fifteen years' nervous weakness, sleeplessness and dyspepsia."

R. M. [illegible], New York.

South Bloomingville, O., May 1, 1879.

Sirs: I have been suffering ten years, and I tried your Hop Bitters and it done me more good than all the doctors.

MISS S. S. BOONE.

Baby Saved.

We are so thankful to say that our nursing baby was permanently cured of a dangerous and protracted constipation and irregularity of the bowels by the use of Hop Bitters by its mother, which at the same time restored her to perfect health and strength.

The Parents, Rochester, N. Y.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

IS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL PHYSICIAN ON the Pacific coast in the treatment of all Chronic and Difficult Diseases of the Sexual Organs.

He will guarantee to cure any form of disease of the generative organs, private disease, [illegible] for [illegible] his advice and treatment.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, Weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, such as Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by a majority of the Medical Profession.

Persons afflicted by any form of sexual disease or weakness [illegible] delay in calling upon the proper physician [illegible] from a sense of modesty, and sometimes from ignorance, until [illegible] those diseased to extent [illegible] their constitution has become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential and all cures perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Disease, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail, if they are curable, and if not, he will tell you so.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult the Doctor personally. Enclose postage stamp for answer.

Office: Nos. 12 and 14 Third street, corner of Alder, opposite Masonic Hall.

Office Hours—9 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M.

All letters [illegible] professional matters must be addressed to Dr. Paul M. Brenan & Co., Portland, Or.

LOST HEALTH

DR. LIEBIG'S WONDERFUL German Invigorator.

Men suffering from Disease and weakness brought on by early imprudence or excesses, resulting in nervous debility, premature decay, lost manhood, etc., finding relief in vain, every known remedy should immediately procure DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2.

THE DOCTOR will agree to forfeit $100 for a case undertaken not cured. The reason why so many cases are not cured is owing to a complication called PROSTATORRHEA, with hyperaesthesia, which requires special treatment. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR NO. 2, under our advice, is the only positive cure for PROSTATORRHEA.

DR. LIEBIG & CO. for the past nineteen years have made an exclusive specialty of the treatment of diseases of men.

If pimples appear on the face, if you become listless and despondent, look out for the complication with Seminal Weakness and loss of Vitality known as Prostatorrhea. Hundreds of lives have been lost and thousands have lost all their property and pleasure in life from its effects. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2 is the only known remedy for the above complication, and a perfect and permanent cure will be given to all cases undertaken under our special advice and treatment.

Medical electric belts free to patients.

To prove the wonderful power of the INVIGORATOR a $2 BOTTLE GIVEN FREE.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

KNOW THYSELF.

A Great Medical Work on Manhood.

Exhausted Vitality, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline in Man, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from indiscretions or excesses. A book for every man, young, middle-aged and old. It contains 125 prescriptions for all acute and chronic diseases, each one of which is invaluable—so found by the author, whose experience for 23 years is such as probably never before fell to the lot of any physician. 300 pages, bound in beautiful French muslin, embossed covers, full gilt, guaranteed to be a finer work in every sense—mechanical, literary and professional—than any other work sold in this country for $2.50, or the money will be refunded in every instance. Price only $1.00 by mail, post-paid. Illustrative sample six cents. Send now. Gold medal awarded the author by the National Medical Association, to the officers of which he refers.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE should be read by the young for instruction, and by the afflicted for relief. It will benefit all.—London Lancet.

There is no member of society to whom THE SCIENCE OF LIFE will not be useful, whether youth, parent, guardian, instructor or clergyman.—Argonaut.

Address the Peabody Medical Institute, or Dr. W. H. Parker, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass., who may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience.
